Council authorizes tighter antenna construction control

The City Council Monday authorized the enforcement of a provision in the city code which requires a building permit for television and radio antenna construction.

The council also created an Economic Development Commission, approved a Cape Central Airways bid to assume management of Sikeston Memorial Airport and approved changes in the city's method of collecting delinquent personal property and merchants and manufacturers taxes.

Antennas

The council authorized enforcement of provisions within the city code which require a building permit for erection of all TV and radio antennas over 12 feet high.

The action came after City Manager Charles Church said Travelers Insurance Co., which supplies the city's liability insurance, requested the action.

The firm said the city's lack of control over the construction of antennas could lead to liability problems for the city if a tower should fall and cause death or injury.

Chjurch said the provision requiring building permits has been on the city books but has not been enforced.

The problem has become more severe with the growing popularity of citizens band base radios in the home, he said. Church added that there have been two incidents this year in which antennas fell across power lines.

Economic Development Commission

The council created an Economic Development Commission to coordinate economic development activities within the city.

The commission will consist of seven members, including the mayor or a city councilman, city manager, director of the Board of Municipal Utilities, presidents of the Chamber of Commerce and Sikeston Industrial Development Corporation and a representative of the public, who will serve a one-year term.

The council outlines the scope of the commission as: evaluating the needs of existing business and industry; determining the type of economic development most suitable for Sikeston; assisting industrial and commercial prospects in the solution of their problems; coordinating community efforts for providing information about Sikeston's services and opportunities; recommending policies and programs to the City Council regarding the city's economic development; and providing overall leadership for Sikeston's economic development efforts.

Airport management

The council authorized Mayor Don Fulton to sign a contract with Cape Central Airways to manage the airport.

Cape Central submitted a rental bid of $800 per month. Other bids were received from J. G. "Pete" Malone, who bid $150 per month for rent and one cent per gallon for gasoline sold; Perry Jolliff, who bid a rent of $100 per month; and Carl Holyfield, who offered to take the job if given a $400 per month subsidy.

Fulton will sign the lease after Cape Central Airways provides a $50,000 performance bond.

A spokesman for the firm said Carl Holyfield would be named manager of the airport.

Delinquent taxes

The Council voted to require the payment of delinquent personal property taxes before city auto stickers are issued and the payment of delinquent merchants and manufacturers taxes before a merchants license is issued.

Church said about 6 per cent of the taxes, totaling about $5,000, are delinquent.

Other items

Church told the council that four bills passed by the Missouri Legislature may have an impact on the city. Included are: a bill making additional sentencing mandatory for criminals who commit a crime with a gun; a change in the annexation law allowing cities to annex by ordinance rather than public vote if all affected property owners agree to the annexation; the exemption of farm equipment from city sales taxes; and elimination of the $500 reporting requirement from candidates seeking public office.

The council approved vacating for a street and an alley while leaving utility easements in place. The vacated areas are Hart Street, between First and Second streets north of the Smith Addition, and the alley running behind the Travelodge Motel and Modern Floor Covering.

The council authorized the issuing of tax bills for paving on Luther, Young, Maude and Dixie streets and authorized the paving and curbing of Fuchs Street from Osage to North Street. A previous authorization for paving the street had not

Madrid names election judges

NEW MADRID — The City Council named judges for the upcoming special election, set the date for a citywide cleanup campaign, discussed flouridation of city water and handled other business at it's regular session Monday night.

The citywide election has been called for June 29, as a result of the failure of a 10-cents per $100 evaluation special tax to pass in the regular city election April 6 for use in the maintenance of city parks and cemeteries.

Judges and clerks will be selected from each of the three wards, with one central polling place at the county court house.

Those named were: Bonnie Boyd, Elsie Hampton and Margarete Boyd in ward one; Mrs. W. G. Lewis and Carrie Shaver in ward two; and Algie Phillips and Doris Jackson in ward three.

Mayor Jim Cravens, in his report to the council, stated that equipment for the flouridation of water could be obtained without cost through the Missouri Department of Natural Resources Division of Health, which could be installed in the city's water system and operated at a cost of approximately $600 per year.

After discussion, the mayor and council agreed to postpone a decision to flouridate the city water supply until the opinions of the citizens could be heard and have requested that the citizentry express their opinions either by contacing their aldermen and mayor or by attending the next regular council meeting.

The council agreed on the dates of June 14 through June 18 as week for the citywide cleanup campaign and agreed to cooperate with the Chamber of Commerce and Community Betterment Committee in carrying out the campaign.

In his report to the council, City Administrator Don Lloyd advised that a citizen band radio had been received from the Division of Highway Safety of the State of Missouri which has been placed in service by the city to monitor channel 9, which is designated as an emergency channel.

Lloyd also stated that a letter from the Department of Housing and Urban Development had been received, stating that a health and nutrition survey will be conducted by the U.S. Public Health Service in the city beginning June 24 and extending through Aug. 4. Ages to be surveyed will be between six months and 64 years.

After discussion, prior to the council meeting, with representatives of property owners on Pinnell Street, from Mitchell Street to Main Street, concerning possible refunds of storm drainage included in street assessments against their property in 1971, it was found that no drainage costs had been assessed against their property, but they had been billed for 28-foot wide streets and only 24-foot wide streets had been constructed.

On discovery of the error the council agreed to make refunds of approximately 80-cents per front foot to property owners along the streets. Those attending the meeting were: Dick Phillips Jr., Mac Cravens Jr. and Al Hendricks.

In other matters, resolutions were passed to allow Administrator Lloyd to sign checks on the city general revenue fund and to authorize Mayor Cravens, Lloyd and Alderman Dick St. Mary and Bob Pulliam to sign checks for money received from the community block grant program and City Clerk Dixie Leonberger was authorized to attest to the validity of their signatures.

A request was heard from Hershel Lott to have the council name a civil defense board, which would in turn name a coordinator. The council agreed to meet with the civil defense group of auxiliary police at their regular meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. at the City Hall for discussion and consideration of the request.

Bid accepted on warning siren

PORTAGEVILLE — The City Council Monday night accepted a bid for a civil defense warning siren at a cost of $6,301.31 from the Law Enforcement Equipment Co. State civil defense funds of $4,174.90 have been approved for the equipment and the balance will be provided by the Southeast Missouri CB Weather Watch Club and the city.

The council tabled opening of bids for improvement and resurfacing of streets and indicated the proposed project is to be revised and re-advertised.

On campaign trail

Visiting Sikeston Monday was James Baker of Kansas City who is seeking the Democratic nomination for Attorney General. Baker made a 16-day state whistle stop tour of Bollinger, Stoddard, Dunklin and Pemiscot Counties Sunday and New Madrid, Mississippi, Scott and Cape Girardeau counties Monday. He was accompanied by his wife, Linda, their pet coon dog Rosebud. Two assistants Charoletee Hildervrand, 14, and Michelle Johnson, 12, of Jefferson City also accompanied them.

Chaffee ordinance restricts burning

CHAFFEE — The passing of two ordinances and a report on planned use of revenue-sharing funds were the chief items to come before the City Council Monday night.

The first new ordinance established open burning restrictions, including regulations for incenerators.

In the second ordinance, the mayor was authorized to enter into a contract with the Sullivan Publications of St. Louis for the codification of ordinances at a cost of $3,550.

Councilman Bob Delezene presented the proposed general revenue and planned use report for revenue-sharing funds, covering the entitlement period from July 1 through Dec. 31.

Capital improvements plans include $3,500 for purchase of water meters and $3,200 for lease-purchase of a modular electronic accounting system. Designated for operation and maintenance is $1,700 for sand, gravel, filter and miscellaneous; $2,000 for the park board; $1,000 for computer maintenance and supply purchase; and $1,406 for the police department.

The council recommended that the report be submitted for federal revenue-sharing funds.

City Clerk Lois Murphy reported the city has received word from the State Department of Highways and Safety that it has been awarded $4,307 for the placement of traffic and safety signs, with a total cost figured at $4,786.

In further business, the council approved the remodeling of a section downstairs in the city hall to be used as police headquarters at a cost of $500. Labor will be donated by auxiliary police officers.

The hiring of John Kosharek was approved for a six-month probationary period as a city dog catcher at a rate of $3 per animal, $2 for disposal, $1 for each cleaning of the pound and 15 cents per mile for traffic expenses within the city limits.

Also approved were the appointment of Martha J. Kay to the Chaffee Housing Commission and the installation of a street light on Robin Hood Circle, where new housing is being constructed.

Three building permits approved included: John Halter, 304 Maple St., storage shed, $600; LaRue Proffer, 305 E. Davidson St., storage room, $3,500; and Ronald Dowd, 121 W. Clarman St., storage room, $3,500.

Howard heads auxiliary unit

Gerald Howard, 114 Dorothy St., has been appointed commander of the Sikeston Auxiliary Police Unit upon the resignation of Commander Leroy Parmenter.

The auxiliary unit is manned by a group of volunteers who assist the local police force by performing added assignements, extra work details and shift changes, and their work has been invaluable during recent years, according to City Manager Charles F. Church.

Howard has been a member of the auxiliary force for 19 years and was assistant commander prior to this appointment. He is also civil defense director for the city.

Council repeals ordinance, confirms Shea appointment

DEXTER — After repealing a section of the city ordinance forbidding such an action, the City Council Monday night confirmed the appointment of Dennis Shea, 21, a stepson of Police Chief Jim Teeters, as police dispatcher.

The council repealed the section of the ordinance forbidding the hiring of two members of an immediate family during a special meeting held Wednesday after an article in the May 30th edition of The Daily Standard pointed out that Shea had been hired in violation of the nepotism rule.

City Clerk Mary Margaret Poyner said this morning that minutes of the meeting were not available but that the repeal action was all that had taken place at the special meeting called by Mayor Willis Conner.

All other parts of the city code remain in effect.

Conner recommended Monday night that Shea be appointed as a probationary dispatcher, and the proposal was accepted unanimously by the council without discussion.

At the same time it confirmed Shea, the council confirmed the appointment of Ken Sexton as police dispatcher and Jerry Woolsey and Randy Payne as probationary officers.

One of the officers takes the place of Rick Coffey, who had been police dispatcher until his promotion to officer.

Coffey had been an officer for just a few weeks before he "more or less quit," he said, due to "a misunderstanding between me and my superiors."

He declined to go into specifics.

The former Poplar Bluff policeman said he hopes to move back to Poplar Bluff and get a job on the police department there.

In other action, the council decided to advertise for bids for aerial spraying of mosquitoes which will be opened at the next meeting on June 21.

The decision was urged by Conner, who also appointed a committee to look into the possiblity of building a shelter to house an ambulance provided to the city by Stoddard County Ambulance Service.

It was pointed out that both Advance and Bloomfield have provided such a shelter.

Conner also informed the council that the Missouri Division of Employment Security has tentatively decided

Burglary attempt fails

Burglars did not have much luck Monday night in their attempt to open the office safe at Sikeston Motor Co., South Main Street.

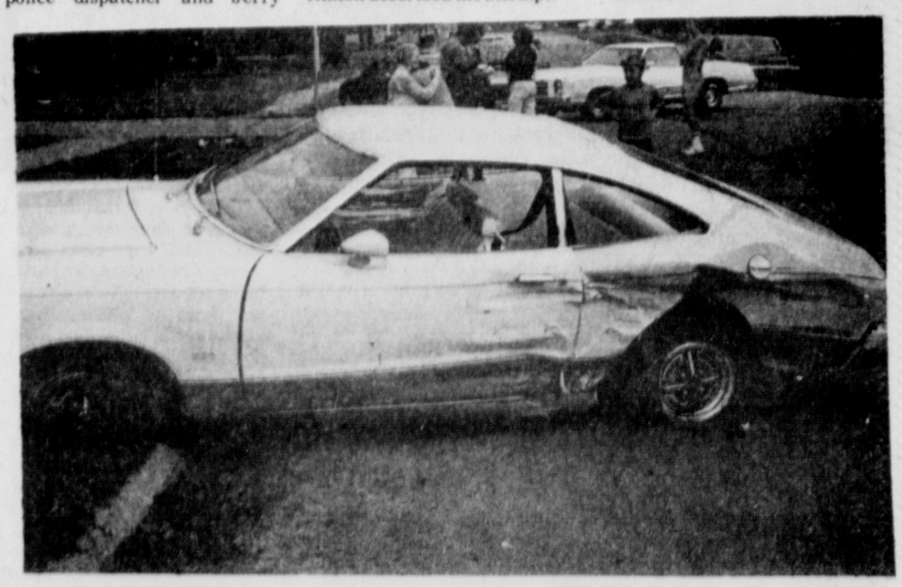
Burglars used an acetylene torch in an attempt to cut through the safe door and to cut through the door hinges.

"An amateur job," was the way Detective Lt. Jack Patterson and Detective Sgt. Dan Hinton described the attempt.

The burglars had more luck with several vending machines, from which they took an undetermined amount of money. They also took two citizens band radios, a police scanner and a base radio from the building.

The amount of the loss was not immediately known, according to police.

The burglars apparently entered the building through a back door.



Child hurt in collision

Two cars collided at the intersection of Moore and Wallace avenues Monday evening. A car driven east on Wallace by Gerald Ryan, 24, of 320 Wallace and the car in the foreground, driven by Nassrin Tavakoli, 21, of Cape Girardeau, which was northbound on Moore, collided at 6:50 p.m. Kristie Ryan, 3, a passenger in the Ryan car, was treated for bruises at Missouri Delta Community Hospital and released. REMEMBER PEARL HARBOR

By Howard Flieger

Even allowing for the national preoccupation with presidential campaigning, the way this country continues to fiddle around with one of the gravest crises of its 200 years simply defies understanding.

The crisis is oil. Our dependence on imports is greater now than it was in the winter of 1973-74 when motorists had to wait in line at fuel pumps. What action has been taken has made things worse rather than better.

Doesn't anybody care about this?

+ To halt the growing dependence on foreign oil by reducing imports by 2 million barrels a day before the end of 1977.

+ To attain energy independence by 1985 so that imports can then be held to a range of 3 to 5 million barrels daily — replaceable if necessary by using oil out of storage and by other emergency measures.

It sounds great. But such goals simply are out of reach, as things stand. It would take a miracle to achieve them.

A Pictogram in this magazine a few weeks ago showed the country racing headlong into increased dependence on foreign oil. Week after week, imports average around 7 million barrels a day. There is nothing in sight to change that.

The start of oil flowing from Alaska a year from now will cut the climbing rate of imports, but it will not even come close to achieving the Administration goals.

What's wrong?

Prof. William A. Johnson, director of George Washington University's Energy Policy Research Project, was a key man in Government in the days leading up to the crisis triggered by the Arab oil embargo of 1973-74. In a new book to be published by the Cornell University Press, he says:

"Until December 1975 the one bright spot was exploration for crude oil in the United States. New drilling was brisk, primarily because the price of newly drilled oil was not controlled by the U.S. Government. However, since December the number of rigs in operation has fallen sharply. Roughly half of the increase in drilling activity over the past three years has been erased in only three months."

Among the reasons he gives: "Perhaps most important have been a cash squeeze generated, in part, by changes in federal tax policies and disincentives to exploration caused by passage of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act in December 1975. This Act rolled back the price of domestically produced crude oil and established, for the first time, a ceiling on the price of newly drilled oil."

Before he signed the Act, President Ford was warned it would lead to greater dependence on foreign oil. It did.

Today the U.S. is defenseless against another oil embargo. Last year, for the first time, the Eastern Hemisphere supplied more than half our total imports. If the present rate continues, it could reach two thirds.

A. V. Jones, Jr., president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, whose members drill 9 out of 10 of the successful wildcat wells in the U.S., testified in an appearance before Congress:

"The message is coming through to many producers that a majority in Congress are not convinced that maximizing U.S. petroleum exploration and production is important, or that reducing U.S. dependency on foreign oil is a pressing priority."

In the words of Prof. Robert J. Robel of Kansas State University, who is chairman of his State's Energy Advisory Council:

"Anyone who promises you a return to the days of cheap, abundant energy is either naive, stupid, or blind to the realities of life. Quite frankly, if this country had reacted to Pearl Harbor as we have to our energy problem, we would all be speaking Japanese today."

Back in the mid-1960s, when the only crisis New Yorkers had to worry about was a prolonged drought, residents of the city were advised that "you don't have to flush for everything."

Today, water may be one commodity New York is not in need of, but the conservation ethic has spread throughout the country. And when it comes to water, the flush toiled is still the greatest waster of this resource.

Now a retired plumber in Ohio has invented a mechanism that enables homeowners to flush for everything and still save water, as well as up to 25 per cent on their monthly water and sewer bills.

The "ECO-Flush" does it by means of a dual system. If the flush handle is pushed up, only two gallons of water are used to remove liquid wastes. If pushed down, the full tank capacity is used for solid wastes.

Marketed by a firm in Columbus, retail cost of the ECO-Flush is about $10, but it is said to be easily installed by the average handyman. Also, because half the water used in the average home goes through the toilet and the ECO-Flush can save half of that, it soon pays for itself.

To paraphrase another slogan from the mid-1960s, Americans now have a choice AND an ECO.

SAFETY AND CONSERVATION

Anyone who has ever paid an auto insurance premium to cover vehicle operation by a young driver would welcome training which improves the safety record of teen-agers and young adults in their 20's on U.S. highways.

This is where the nation's high schools can be a constructive influence with driver education courses which tend to improve the level of driving skills and responsibility among young drivers. The American Automobile Association has pointed out that such courses, in addition to furthering safety on the highways, can contribute to gasoline conservation. Before bad driving habits have an opportunity to develop, young people can be taught fuel-saving driving techniques and practice them in high school driver education classes.

Encouraging youngsters to take driver training courses makes good sense for all concerned. It should increase their chance of surviving highway perils, lower the overall accident rate and contribute to the conservation of high-cost petroleum products.

A court decision halted him at one time in stopping the low license plate numbers. Then the Legislature stopped him a few weeks ago. Apparently Governor Bond was not so opposed to the low numbers if the owners wanted to pay about a $24 "bonus" for getting the number. We are certain some would have done that.

In discussing the low license plate matter with a rather prominent Missourian not too long ago, he expressed the view that as long as G. Duncan Bawman, publisher of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, held license plate No. 22, there would not be any definite move to do away with the license plates.

Only time will tell if Governor Bond will give in once more on the plates since this is an election year or whether he will try to make it a campaign promise as he did four years ago. If he permits low license numbers again, then he has once more failed to live up to one of his goals. But he had failed on other goals also, so that should not be any great bar for him.

THERE IS very little difference in people, says Clement Stone, but that little difference makes a big difference. The little difference is attitude. The big difference is whether it is positive or negative.

Nowhere is this principle better illustrated than in the story of the young bride from the East who, during the last war, followed her husband to an Army camp on the edge of the desert in California. Living conditions were primitive at best, and he had advised against it, but she wanted to be with him.

The only housing they could find was a rundown shack near an Indian village. The heat was unbearable in the daytime— 115 degrees in the shade. The wind blew constantly, spreading dust and sand all over everything. The days were long and boring. Her only neighbors were the Indians, none of whom spoke English.

When her husband was ordered farther into the desert for two weeks of maneuvers, loneliness and the wretched living conditions got the best of her. She wrote to her mother that she was coming home—she just couldn't take any more. In a short time she received a reply which includes these two lines:

Two men looked out from prison bars,
One saw mud, the other saw the stars.

She read the lines over and over and began to feel ashamed of herself. And she didn't really want to leave her husband. All right, she'd look for the stars.

In the following days she set out to make friends with the Indians. She asked them to teach her weaving and pottery. At first they were distant, but as soon as they sensed her interest was genuine they returned her friendship. She became fascinated with their culture, history—everytyhing about them.

She began to study the desert as well, and soon it, too, changed from a desolate, forbidding place to a marvelous thing of beauty. She had her mother send her books. She studied the forms of the cacti, the yuccas and the Joshua trees. She collected sea shells that had been left there millions of years ago when the sands had been an ocean floor. Later, she became such an expert on the area that she wrote a book about it.

What had changed? Not the desert; not the Indians. Simply by changing her own attitude she had transformed a miserable experience into a highly rewarding one.

SADLY MISTAKEN

New accounts of a steady decline in the stock market have raised speculation that a depression is just around the corner. Whether such is the case or not, no one knows. But certain basic factors are involved in the currently depressed securities markets that can no longer be ignored. One of these is incentive-killing taxation.

The American Council on Capital Gains and Estate Taxation, which is a nonprofit association whose members represent the interest of millions of individual taxpayers, home owners, small businessmen, savers and investors in all income brackets, is working to enlist wide support for tax provisions that stimulate savings and "capital formation." Capital formation refers to the process by which the savings of the people are attracted to investment in the development of industry that provides livelihoods, either directly or indirectly, for all Americans and tax revenues for all levels of government. According to the Council, "Since the 1969 tax law, profits on stock held longer than six months are taxes at rates up to 35 percent. By lowering the trop rate on capital gains (the increase in value on investments held over a period of time) to 21 percent, and even lower for stocks held for longer periods, the Council believes that adequate incentives for individuals to save and to risk their savings in the capital market will be secured."

Today's rates of taxation on capital gains is a capital formation killer of the first order. For example, there are 800,000 fewer shareholders today in American corporations than there were at the start of 1972. Moreover, according to one authority, the fact that 300 stock offerings were withdrawn in the first half of 1973 "...underscores...the problems business and industry are having now in attracting equity investment." All of this comes at a time when the need for jobs is growing, the cost of providing them is increasing rapidly and the capital demands of industry have soared to astronomical proportions.

Anyone who dismisses discussion of tax laws that discourage investment and the utilization of savings of individuals and institutions as a bulwark to strengthen the private enterprise system on the grounds that they are of no concern to the average person is sadly mistaken. Such thinking can transform a depressed stock market into economic chaos, wide spread unemployment, soaring governmental deficits--and galloping inflation--to say nothing of a slowdown in energy exploration and costly environmental protection programs.

A SOLID PLUS

With the methodical care that goes into the planning of a space flight, the U.S. railroad industry is programming a computer system into the massive movements of the nation's freight car fleet. As a result, overall rail operations and car utilization are registering steady advances that would have been undreamed of a few years ago.

In a quarterly report filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Association of American Railroads stated that freight car utilization is at an all-time high and getting better all the time. "Expressed in terms of net ton-miles per serviceable car day," says the Association, "the first-quarter average (1974) was 1,684, representing an increase of 8 percent over the corresponding period of 1973 and 4 percent over the full-year record of 1,621 established last year." Other factors involved in greater car utilization include a steadily increasing level of business and the rapidly expanding use of run-through trains and unit trains. These factors coupled with the rail industry's implementation of the expanded National Freight Car Information System called TRAIN II, are bringing a revolution in rail transport that is yet to be fully appreciated by the public.

In these days of soaring inflation, the growing efficiency of rail freight transportation is an economic plus for everyone. It represents a tangible boost in productivity and exemplifies the benefits that always accompany the considered exercise of private initiative and the application of innovative technology.

THE AFFAIR IS OVER

WASHINGTON— I'm getting sick and tired of all these women revealing their affairs with the leading political figures of our time. It seems to me that there was a period in this country when a woman was content to go to bed with a President of the United States, a congressman or a well-known Washington celebrity, and do it for the pleasure of his company.

But recently everyone is starting to blab, and I think I can speak for all future Presidents, congressmen and opinion makers when I say that if these women don't stop being indiscreet we're all going to have to say "No" when they proposition us.

I know this is a harsh measure, and many women reading this are going to say "Why should we be punished because of a few women who want to brag about their affairs?"

The answer is that those of us in power have our careers at stake, and if we can't have a lovely evening without fear of being exposed in print we're just not going to get involved in extramarital affairs no matter how intriguing they may seem at the time.

Formerly, the beauty of being President of the United States or a member of Congress, or even a member of the press corps in Washington, was that one was able to carry on an assignation with the full knowledge that it would be kept confidential. All of us are very busy men, and the only reason we had an affair was so that we coul bring joy and happiness to some poor girl who dreamed of being so close to power.

We did it purely for altruistic reasons and we asked nothing in return for those arduous afternoons and evenings except a little respect and an assurance that our tete-a-tete would not be violated.

But this vow of silence is being broken every day. Every time you pick up the newspaper you read another story about somebody who claims to have had an affair with an important American personality. These women have been egged on, I'm sorry to say, by scandal sheets and paperback publishers who are willing to pay vast sums of money to print the stories of what it was actually liketo be the intimate friend of someone in high office.

There was a time when we used to put a woman in a taxi and send her home contented because she had spent an evening with someone she thought she loved. She would go to sleep dreaming that she had done something to make this a better country for every American.

But now these same women seem to rush home and stay up half the night writing in their diaries of things that are none of the public's buisness.

Well, let me tell you, it's all come to an end. I have talked to presidential candidates, congressmen and senators and they have all told me the same thing: "Enough is enough. If women are going to go bragging like men do about their affairs, they're going to have to find their fun somewhere else."

It's a pity it has come to this because Washington was one of the few cities in the United States where a woman could have an affair with the President of the United States or a ranking member of a House committee in privacy and away from the prying eyes of neighbors.

But now, thanks to a few money-hungry ladies, all of us, from the President on down to the lowliest freshman congressman, will have to take a firm stand.

The next time a secretary or a movie actess says to us, "Voulez-vous couchez avec moi?" we're going to have to firmly reply, "Pas ce soir, cherie."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
The Witch-Finder General
with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON— In the 1640s, an Englishman named Matthew Hopkins discovered a foolproof method of detecting witches. It consisted of some original techniques in torture. The King, grateful over the opportunity to rid his realm of witches, conferred upon Hopkins the title of "His Majesty's Witch-Finder General."

The official witch-finder hurried from place to place, often at the urgent request of the town fathers. In Essex and Suffolk alone, he tested more than 300 persons. Most failed the tests and were put to death.

Some 330 years later, an American president, Richard Nixon, appointed a modern Witch-Finder General to root out the radicals in our midst. The witch hunter, Guy Goodwin, hurried from place to place indicting radicals.

Justice Department sources say he supervised about 100 grand jury investigations in 36 states. He returned more than 400 indictments. There was on trouble. The indictments didn't stick; only about 10 per cent ended in convictions.

Many of the convictions were also for minor offenses, having nothing to do with the subversive activities Goodwin was investigating. Goodwin sought contempt and perjury indictments when he couldn't make a better case.

Under the American judicial system, grand juries are supposed to protect the people from oppressive government prosecutors. But Goodwin turned his grand juries into a coercive instrument, which he used to investigate and harass his victims. He jailed people who refused to testify. Under the law, a recalcitrant witness can be locked up until he talks or until the grand jury expires. But for punitive purposes, Goodwin extended grand jury terms so the witnesses would be kept behind bars longer.

Goodwin is an improbable Witch-Finder General, an impeccable, subdued, handsome man, with styled gray hair and a soft, almost effeminate voice. But he was relentless in investigating civil disturbances and terrorist activities. He would up in charge of a special section, which hunted subversives for the Nixon Administration.

The country was disturbed about dissidents in the early 1970s, with good reason. Some had staged violent demonstrations, planted bombs and committed other outrages. Their purpose, they had boasted, was to overthrow the American system.

But many were peaceful, patriotic antiwar activists, who merely opposed the government's Vietnam policies. Goodwin often abused their rights, too. His most serious disservice to the nation, however, was to pervert the grand jury into a tool of government repression.

We have questioned officials at all levels of the Justice Department about Goodwin's tactics. We have also interviewed distinguished lawyers and civil libertarians. Some spoke to us on the record; others preferred to keep their remarks anonymous.

The most common complaint was that Goodwin abuses the grand jury processes, that he uses the grand jury to harass people for their political beliefs, that he brings indictments on thin evidence and then leaves it to someone else to try the cases.

Whitney North Seymour, the staid U.S. attorney in New York City, said Goodwin had "little apparent regard for the rights of witnesses." Prof. Arthur Kinoy, a famed constitutional lawyer who has reviewed Goodwin's record, called it "one of the most serious examples of repression." Some of Goodwin's colleagues refer to him as the "grand inquisitor."

Yet the Justice Department, under fairminded Atty. Gen. Edward Levi, is continuing to use the Witch-Finder General. He was recently dispatched to Richmond, Va., for example, to oversee a grand jury investigation of an FBI coverup.

Goodwin has the kind of faith in the FBI that most people reserve for their church. One of his most prized possessions is a letter of commendation from the late FBI director J. Edgar Hoover. Once, he joined an FBI squad on a 4 a.m. raid upon some Camden, N.J., draft-board saboteurs.

Goodwin seemed as eager to protect the FBI men in Richmond as he was to persecute leftists. This brought him into a head-on collison with Rodney Sager, a tough federal attorney who headed the Justice Department office in Richmond.

Sager at first tried to cooperate with Goodwin, but then sought to remove him from the FBI case. The witch hunter, believe it or not, hauled Sager himself before the grand jury for 15 hours. For Sager, this was the last straw. He worked nights to draft a long formal departmental complaint against Goodwin.

Although Justice has refused to release it and Sager won't show us a copy for fear of official reprisals, we have had access to the complaint.

It charges that Goodwin and an aide indulged in "gross professional misconduct and gross abuse of the grand jury system." In the interest of justice, added Sager, it was vital "to properly expose this flagrant abuse of the grand jury system."

The department's ethics watchdog, Michael Shaheen, responded that Sager's charges had been investigated and had been found without merit. Yet we have evidence that only a perfunctory investigation was made, In disgust, Sager quit the Justice Department a few days ago. "I'm disappointed and disillusioned," he aaid.

REMEMBER PEARL HARBOR

By Howard Flieger

Even allowing for the national preoccupation with presidential campaigning, the way this country continues to fiddle around with one of the gravest crises of its 200 years simply defies understanding.

The crisis is oil. Our dependence on imports is greater now than it was in the winter of 1973-74 when motorists had to wait in line at fuel pumps. What action has been taken has made things worse rather than better.

Doesn't anybody care about this?

+ To halt the growing dependence on foreign oil by reducing imports by 2 million barrels a day before the end of 1977.

+ To attain energy independence by 1985 so that imports can then be held to a range of 3 to 5 million barrels daily — replaceable if necessary by using oil out of storage and by other emergency measures.

It sounds great. But such goals simply are out of reach, as things stand. It would take a miracle to achieve them.

THERE IS very little difference in people, says Clement Stone, but that little difference makes a big difference. The little difference is attitude. The big difference is whether it is positive or negative.

Nowhere is this principle better illustrated than in the story of the young bride from the East who, during the last war, followed her husband to an Army camp on the edge of the desert in California. Living conditions were primitive at best, and he had advised against it, but she wanted to be with him.

The only housing they could find was a rundown shack near an Indian village. The heat was unbearable in the daytime— 115 degrees in the shade. The wind blew constantly, spreading dust and sand all over everything. The days were long and boring. Her only neighbors were the Indians, none of whom spoke English.

When her husband was ordered farther into the desert for two weeks of maneuvers, loneliness and the wretched living conditions got the best of her. She wrote to her mother that she was coming home—she just couldn't take any more. In a short time she received a reply which includes these two lines:

Two men looked out from prison bars,

One saw mud, the other saw the stars.

She read the lines over and over and began to feel ashamed of herself. And she didn't really want to leave her husband. All right, she'd look for the stars.

In the following days she set out to make friends with the Indians. She asked them to teach her weaving and pottery. At first they were distant, but as soon as they sensed her interest was genuine they returned her friendship. She became fascinated with their culture, history—everytyhing about them.

She began to study the desert as well, and soon it, too, changed from a desolate, forbidding place to a marvelous thing of beauty. She had her mother send her books. She studied the forms of the cacti, the yuccas and the Joshua trees. She collected sea shells that had been left there millions of years ago when the sands had been an ocean floor. Later, she became such an expert on the area that she wrote a book about it.

What had changed? Not the desert; not the Indians. Simply by changing her own attitude she had transformed a miserable experience into a highly rewarding one.

THE SUCCESSFUL manager of men derives his satisfaction from achieving with people. He takes real pride in surrounding himself with strong people and in helping them achieve. He recognizes that in a world which is changing economocially and socially and which is accumulating technical knowledge rapidly, he and his people are confronted with the need to cope skillfully with these changes. To keep his business competitive in an ever-changing society, he holds a very strategic position. Helping his people grow with the times is his opportunity and his challenge.

SADLY MISTAKEN

New accounts of a steady decline in the stock market have raised speculation that a depression is just around the corner. Whether such is the case or not, no one knows. But certain basic factors are involved in the currently depressed securities markets that can no longer be ignored. One of these is incentive-killing taxation.

The American Council on Capital Gains and Estate Taxation, which is a nonprofit association whose members represent the interest of millions of individual taxpayers, home owners, small businessmen, savers and investors in all income brackets, is working to enlist wide support for tax provisions that stimulate savings and "capital formation." Capital formation refers to the process by which the savings of the people are attracted to investment in the development of industry that provides livelihoods, either directly or indirectly, for all Americans and tax revenues for all levels of government. According to the Council, "Since the 1969 tax law, profits on stock held longer than six months are taxes at rates up to 35 percent. By lowering the trop rate on capital gains (the increase in value on investments held over a period of time) to 21 percent, and even lower for stocks held for longer periods, the Council believes that adequate incentives for individuals to save and to risk their savings in the capital market will be secured."

Today's rates of taxation on capital gains is a capital formation killer of the first order. For example, there are 800,000 fewer shareholders today in American corporations than there were at the start of 1972. Moreover, according to one authority, the fact that 300 stock offerings were withdrawn in the first half of 1973 "...underscores...the problems business and industry are having now in attracting equity investment." All of this comes at a time when the need for jobs is growing, the cost of providing them is increasing rapidly and the capital demands of industry have soared to astronomical proportions.

Anyone who dismisses discussion of tax laws that discourage investment and the utilization of savings of individuals and institutions as a bulwark to strengthen the private enterprise system on the grounds that they are of no concern to the average person is sadly mistaken. Such thinking can transform a depressed stock market into economic chaos, wide spread unemployment, soaring governmental deficits--and galloping inflation--to say nothing of a slowdown in energy exploration - and costly environmental protection programs.

NOTHING LIKE A FREE PRESS

The definition of responsible journalism in an open society such as the United States will probably never be settled to everyone's satisfaction. But the crucial role of the free press in a free society has been amply demonstrated as the battles of Watergate have rolled across the land. Tiresome as the proceedings have become, they leave no doubt that there is nothing to equal an inquiring reporter when it comes to cleanking skeletons out of political closets and assuring that the doctrine of expediency, used without fear of discovery, does not destroy the rule of law that safeguards individual rights.

"Who was that?" asked the physician.

"Someone named Johnson," answered his nurse, "Who wanted to speak to you about a circumcision."

XXX

A SOLID PLUS

With the methodical care that goes into the planning of a space flight, the U.S. railroad industry is programming a computer system into the massive movements of the nation's freight car fleet. As a result, overall rail operations and car utilization are registering steady advances that would have been undreamed of a few years ago.

In a quarterly report filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Association of American Railroads stated that freight car utilization is at an all-time high and getting better all the time. "Expressed in terms of net ton-miles per serviceable car day," says the Association, "the first-quarter average (1974) was 1,684, representing an increase of 8 percent over the corresponding period of 1973 and 4 percent over the full-year record of 1,621 established last year." Other factors involved in greater car utilization include a steadily increasing level of business and the rapidly expanding use of run-through trains and unit trains. These factors coupled with the rail industry's implementation of the expanded National Freight Car Information System called TRAIN II, are bringing a revolution in rail transport that is yet to be fully appreciated by the public.

In these days of soaring inflation, the growing efficiency of rail freight transportation is an economic plus for everyone. It represents a tangible boost in productivity and exemplifies the benefits that always accompany the considered exercise of private initiative and the application of innovative technology.

THE AFFAIR IS OVER

WASHINGTON— I'm getting sick and tired of all these women revealing their affairs with the leading political figures of our time. It seems to me that there was a period in this country when a woman was content to go to bed with a President of the United States, a congressman or a well-known Washington celebrity, and do it for the pleasure of his company.

But recently everyone is starting to blab, and I think I can speak for all future Presidents, congressmen and opinion makers when I say that if these women don't stop being indiscreet we're all going to have to say "No" when they proposition us.

I know this is a harsh measure, and many women reading this are going to say "Why should we be punished because of a few women who want to brag about their affairs?"

The answer is that those of us in power have our careers at stake, and if we can't have a lovely evening without fear of being exposed in print we're just not going to get involved in extramarital affairs no matter how intriguing they may seem at the time.

Formerly, the beauty of being President of the United States or a member of Congress, or even a member of the press corps in Washington, was that one was able to carry on an assignation with the full knowledge that it would be kept confidential. All of us are very busy men, and the only reason we had an affair was so that we coul bring joy and happiness to some poor girl who dreamed of being so close to power.

We did it purely for altruistic reasons and we asked nothing in return for those arduous afternoons and evenings except a little respect and an assurance that our tete-a-tete would not be violated.

But this vow of silence is being broken every day. Every time you pick up the newspaper you read another story about somebody who claims to have had an affair with an important American personality. These women have been egged on, I'm sorry to say, by scandal sheets and paperback publishers who are willing to pay vast sums of money to print the stories of what it was actually liketo be the intimate friend of someone in high office.

There was a time when we used to put a woman in a taxi and send her home contented because she had spent an evening with someone she thought she loved. She would go to sleep dreaming that she had done something to make this a better country for every American.

But now these same women seem to rush home and stay up half the night writing in their diaries of things that are none of the public's buisness.

Well, let me tell you, it's all come to an end. I have talked to presidential candidates, congressmen and senators and they have all told me the same thing: "Enough is enough. If women are going to go bragging like men do about their affairs, they're going to have to find their fun somewhere else."

It's a pity it has come to this because Washington was one of the few cities in the United States where a woman could have an affair with the President of the United States or a ranking member of a House committee in privacy and away from the prying eyes of neighbors.

But now, thanks to a few money-hungry ladies, all of us, from the President on down to the lowliest freshman congressman, will have to take a firm stand.

The next time a secretary or a movie actess says to us, "Voulez-vous couchez avec moi?" we're going to have to firmly reply, "Pas ce soir, cherie."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
The Witch-Finder General
with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON— In the 1640s, an Englishman named Matthew Hopkins discovered a foolproof method of detecting witches. It consisted of some original techniques in torture. The King, grateful over the opportunity to rid his realm of witches, conferred upon Hopkins the title of "His Majesty's Witch-Finder General."

The official witch-finder hurried from place to place, often at the urgent request of the town fathers. In Essex and Suffolk alone, he tested more than 300 persons. Most failed the tests and were put to death.

Some 330 years later, an American president, Richard Nixon, appointed a modern Witch-Finder General to root out the radicals in our midst. The witch hunter, Guy Goodwin, hurried from place to place indicting radicals.

Justice Department sources say he supervised about 100 grand jury investigations in 36 states. He returned more than 400 indictments. There was on trouble. The indictments didn't stick; only about 10 per cent ended in convictions.

Many of the convictions were also for minor offenses, having nothing to do with the subversive activities Goodwin was investigating. Goodwin sought contempt and perjury indictments when he couldn't make a better case.

Under the American judicial system, grand juries are supposed to protect the people from oppressive government prosecutors. But Goodwin turned his grand juries into a coercive instrument, which he used to investigate and harass his victims. He jailed people who refused to testify. Under the law, a recalcitrant witness can be locked up until he talks or until the grand jury expires. But for punitive purposes, Goodwin extended grand jury terms so the witnesses would be kept behind bars longer.

Goodwin is an improbable Witch-Finder General, an impeccable, subdued, handsome man, with styled gray hair and a soft, almost effeminate voice. But he was relentless in investigating civil disturbances and terrorist activities. He would up in charge of a special section, which hunted subversives for the Nixon Administration.

The country was disturbed about dissidents in the early 1970s, with good reason. Some had staged violent demonstrations, planted bombs and committed other outrages. Their purpose, they had boasted, was to overthrow the American system.

But many were peaceful, patriotic antiwar activists, who merely opposed the government's Vietnam policies. Goodwin often abused their rights, too. His most serious disservice to the nation, however, was to pervert the grand jury into a tool of government repression.

We have questioned officials at all levels of the Justice Department about Goodwin's tactics. We have also interviewed distinguished lawyers and civil libertarians. Some spoke to us on the record; others preferred to keep their remarks anonymous.

The most common complaint was that Goodwin abuses the grand jury processes, that he uses the grand jury to harass people for their political beliefs, that he brings indictments on thin evidence and then leaves it to someone else to try the cases.

Whitney North Seymour, the staid U.S. attorney in New York City, said Goodwin had "little apparent regard for the rights of witnesses." Prof. Arthur Kinoy, a famed constitutional lawyer who has reviewed Goodwin's record, called it "one of the most serious examples of repression." Some of Goodwin's colleagues refer to him as the "grand inquisitor."

Yet the Justice Department, under fairminded Atty. Gen. Edward Levi, is continuing to use the Witch-Finder General. He was recently dispatched to Richmond, Va., for example, to oversee a grand jury investigation of an FBI coverup.

Goodwin has the kind of faith in the FBI that most people reserve for their church. One of his most prized possessions is a letter of commendation from the late FBI director J. Edgar Hoover. Once, he joined an FBI squad on a 4 a.m. raid upon some Camden, N.J., draft-board saboteurs.

Goodwin seemed as eager to protect the FBI men in Richmond as he was to persecute leftists. This brought him into a head-on collison with Rodney Sager, a tough federal attorney who headed the Justice Department office in Richmond.

Sager at first tried to cooperate with Goodwin, but then sought to remove him from the FBI case. The witch hunter, believe it or not, hauled Sager himself before the grand jury for 15 hours. For Sager, this was the last straw. He worked nights to draft a long formal departmental complaint against Goodwin.

Although Justice has refused to release it and Sager won't show us a copy for fear of official reprisals, we have had access to the complaint.

It charges that Goodwin and an aide indulged in "gross professional misconduct and gross abuse of the grand jury system." In the interest of justice, added Sager, it was vital "to properly expose this flagrant abuse of the grand jury system."

The department's ethics watchdog, Michael Shaheen, responded that Sager's charges had been investigated and had been found without merit. Yet we have evidence that only a perfunctory investigation was made, In disgust, Sager quit the Justice Department a few days ago. "I'm disappointed and disillusioned," he aaid.

Footnote: Goodwin and Shaheen refused to speak to us.

Bread bags become bargain bonanza

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. E. L. asked how to crochet rugs out of plastic bags. I have cerebral palsy and have crocheted aout 200 such rugs in the past four years. Start cutting your bags into strips about two inches wide, going from the top down and round and round the bag. I find it easier to sew the ends of these long strips together overlapping the ends about two inches Start the rug by making a chain of about 14 inches with a size K metal crochet hook. Then single crochet in each chain stitch, adding an extra single crochet at the end. Keep going around, being sure to make enough additions so the rug oval will lay nice and flat and not roll up. Crochet until the desired size is attained.

I also use old plastic tablecloths, shower curtains and drapes and even swimming pool liners — anything, as long as it is plastic. The heavier the material the narrower the strips should be cut. I also edge the bread bag rugs with a heavier plastic. If a rug seems a bit "curly" I put it under my mattress and sleep on it a couple of nights and this does a great job of pressing. — GERTHA.

DEAR READERS and Mrs. E. L. and Jean, too — Of course, some make round rugs. Then the center chain is joined an a stitch worked in each single crochet, adding additional stitches when needed to make rug lay flat. Mrs. J. W. wrote that she also uses such bags to crochet vests, stool covers, place mats, tablecloths and even bedspreads. She shakes dirt off and washes them in cool water when it is needed. L. H. tapers the ends of a cut bag in about three inches from the tips and then places tips, going in opposite directions, and sews them together for a nice flat look where bags are joined. Mrs. F. J. S. makes shopping bags by crocheting twice the length desired, and then turning half up and then crochets sides together. Handles are made of narrow strips of the same. Since they stretch she reinforces her crochet work with a strong cord that is crocheted in with the plastic strips. Doris also uses dry cleaning plastic bags for crocheting rugs and says they should be cut about six inches wide. — POLLY.

Pork cuts on the rise

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — After a week of substantial declines in retail pork prices, the price for most pork cuts soared this week, according to the weekly marketbasket survey of the Missouri Farm Bureau.

While consumers were faced with large increases for pork, however, the retail prices of other selected items at 50 grocery stores across the state were generally steady or declining, the survey showed.

Leading the hikes in pork prices were butt portions of ham and blade roast, both rising 12 cents a pound to $1.24 and $1.38 respectively.

Pork steak was up nine cents a pound to $1.39 followed by shank portions of ham, which rose seven cents a pound to $1.06.

Only center cut chops recorded a decline, falling three cents to $1.81 a pound.

Increases for beef were small as three cuts rose only a penny a pound—blade roast to 89 cents, Rib steak to $1.70 and sirloin steak to $1.81.

Mandatory retirement may end

By STEVE CAHALAN
University of Missouri
Washington Reporting Program

Washington-- To the delight of many older Americans, Congress is considering legislation that would prevent mandatory retirement because of age. However, some labor and business leaders say they fear a ban on compulsory retirement might cause higher unemployment rates and disruption of pension and social security programs.

Forty-four congressmen and nine senators are sponsoring identical bills which were introduced last year. The House Equal Opportunity Subcommittee conducted initial hearings last month and may hold additional hearings this session. Senate hearings probably will not begin until the House votes on the bill.

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., who introduced the House version, predicts that increasing public pressure will ensure House passage in the next session of Congress. However, the bill faces strong opposition from labor and business lobbyists, though interest groups have generally not taken official or public positions on the bill. Many lobbyists haven't heard of the proposal.

The bill has both liberal and conservative sponsors. In the House, sponsors include liberals Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., and Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., along with conservative John Rousselot, R-Calif. In the Senate, conservative Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., and liberal Frank Church, D-Idaho, are among the bill's backers.

Supporters cite U.S. Bureau of Census estimates that the number of persons age 65 and older will continue to increase, placing an increasing burden on working persons whose taxes fund the social security system.

The census bureau estimates that in July 1975 about 22.4 million of the nation's 213.1 million persons, 10.5 percent of the total population, were age 65 or older. The bureau estimates that by the year 2000 nearly 30.6 million persons, or 11.7 percent of the population, will be in this age category. By 2030, when persons born in the baby boom of the 1950s have reached age 65, an estimated 51.6 million persons will be in that category, representing 17 per cent of the nation's population.

Associations of elderly people voice strong support for the bills now before Congress. Faye Mench, lobbyist for the American Association of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers Association, says mandatory retirement policies do not take into account whether employes are quialified to continue working.

"Having a mandatory retirement age is an easy out for the employer," Mrs. Mench says. "He doesn't have to tell someone that they're senile or otherwise incapable." She says employers should tell incapable employes that they are no longer qualified, rather than impose mandatory retirement ages.

John Martin, legislative consultant to the retired persons and retired teachers associations, adds that forced retirement can be damaging to physical and psychological health.

"We really don't have an official position," says Michael Markowitz, director of labor relations for the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM). "But we would tend to oppose the bill on the theory that it extends government regulation where it is not needed." NAM spokesmen say mandatory retirement policies allow employers to make way for younger workers, while saving themselves and their employes the unpleasant experience of declaring individual workers unfit because of senility or some other age-related malady.

The AFL-CIO wants mandatory retirement to be subject to collective bargaining. Union officials fear that ending these retirement policies would mean fewer jobs for young workers.

When the congressional bills receive additional publicity, women's organizations can be expected to express their support, says Findley aide Chuck Cooney. Mandatory retirement discriminates especially against women, he says. Because women often enter the work force late in life, after they have raised families, they sometimes don't accumulate enough years' experience to qualify for pension plans, Cooney says.

Melissa Thompson, legislative coordinator for the National Organization of Women (NOW), says that although her organization has not officially endorsed the bill, a NOW task force has.

Other interest groups may announce support or opposition to the bill's once its effects on unemployment rates, pension plans and social security programs are known. Findley contends that unemployment would not increase, as the economy could accommodate the large work force and because most older people would retire voluntarily. Findley says that existing pension plans would not be endangered, arguing that banning mandatory retirement would force employers to provide increased incentive for employes to retire.

Americans apparently oppose mandatory retirement because of age. According to a 1975 Harris poll made for the National Council on the Aging, 86 per cent of all Americans oppose forced retirement, except for health reasons. However, 49 per cent said older workers should retire to allow room for younger workers to move up.

Woman's bid for freedom begins today

YORK, Neb. (AP) — Caril Fugate takes her dream for freedom before the State Parole Board today, 18 years after she accompanied Charles Starkweather on a nightmare killing spree that left 10 persons dead.

Miss Fugate, now 32, has spent more than half her life in prison.

Some testimony opposing Miss Fugate's parole was expected today, corrections officials said.

If the five-member board decides to parole her, she could be freed June 20 and assume a new identity arranged for her in another state.

Miss Fugate was 14 and Starkweather was 19 when their journey of death began on a Monday in 1958. Nine persons were shot and stabbed to death in the Lincoln area, and a 10th was shot and killed on a highway near Douglas, Wyo., before the teen-age couple was caught.

Starkweather later admitted an unsolved killing near Lincoln, raising the death count to 11. He was executed in 1959 and Miss Fugate was sentenced to life in prison.

Miss Fugate has said she was coerced by Starkweather into accompanying him. Starkweather testified she was a willing helper and said or implied she was involved in as many as six killings.

In 1973 she told the Pardon Board, "If I would have to stay in this institution for the rest of my life, I would stand upon these grounds: I am not guilty."

Sorority awards college scholarships

Mary Jo Allen of Dexter and Jamie Hemmer of Bloomfield are the recipients of the 1976 Alpha Delta Kappa Scholarships in the amount of $100 each, according to Mrs. LaVelle Smith of Dexter, the group's retiring president.

Alpha Delta Kappa is an honorary educational sorority with members from Dexter, Bloomfield and Puxico.

Miss Allen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Allen of Dexter, is a 1976 graduate of Dexter High School and was an honor student. She was assistant editor of the Reveille and a majorette in the high school band. She plans to attend Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau and study physical education.

Miss Hemmer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hemmer of Bloomfield, is a 1976 graduate of Bloomfield High School. She will also attend Southeast Missouri State University, where she plans to major in business. She was an honor student in high school and vice president of Future Homemakers of America. She was treasurer of the senior class and a member of the choir and pep club.

Mrs. Jeannetta Pogue, Puxico, recording secretary; Mrs. Marty Thompson, Dexter, treasurer; Mrs. Reita Lebeau, Dexter, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Louisa Quick, Bloomfield, chaplain; and Joanne Newcomer, Bloomfield, historian.

Mrs. Landon Brown of Dexter was co-hostess of the meeting.

FTC judge says diet pill claims false

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marketers of the "X-11" diet pill must stop using advertisements that claim its pill has a unique ingredient allowing people to lose weight without eating less.

The advertising claims are false, a Federal Trade Commission administrative law judge, Daniel Hanscom, said today.

The judge said the pill does not cause most users to lose weight unless they cut caloric intake. The key ingredient, phenylpropanalomine, is used in several other over-the-counter diet products, he noted.

Hanscom said that the respondents had no reason to believe that most X-11 users would lose a substantial amount of weight, as the questionable advertising states.

Orange juice prices may fall

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Prices for frozen orange juice concentrate probably will be forced down by inventories millions of gallons larger than first reported, citrus industry spokesmen say.

Industry experts said understated inventories could cost growers as much as $8 million, with wholesale prices falling as much as 15 cents on a dozen six-ounce cans of the frozen concentrate. That could mean a drop of a penny a can or more at the supermarket.

The Florida Canners Association announced the new inventory figures over the weekend and said it would conduct an immediate inquiry.

"Based on statistical data reported to us, it appears the inventory of bulk (frozen concentrated orange juice) may have been between two million gallons and five million gallons greater than our past reports have shown," the association said. "We have initiated steps to enable us to determine the correct figures."

There were predictions that wholesale orange juice concentrate prices could fall as early as next week.

Reader raises racket about tennis dress

Dear Ann Landers: Now that every housewife in America has decided she is going to take up tennis, I hope you will print this letter for them to see.

Please, ladies, tennis outfits are supposed to be worn on the courts, not on buses, in supermarkets, to the beauty shop and while running neighborhood errands.

You do not look fetching with your fannies hanging out of the ruffled panties and a blue network of varicose veins exposed for the world to see.

Would you consider going marketing in your underwear or a bathing suit? Well, why parade around in something that shows just as much?

If you don't care how you look, consider please those of us who have to look at you. Thanks a lot. -- Mr. John Q. Public

Dear John: I can't say that I've seen a great many tennis outfits on the loose, but then I live in the heart of town and I haven't been in many supermarkets lately.

If the shoe fits, girls, put it on -- or take it off.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a fairly intelligent woman (or so I thought) in a state of shock. Why? Because I didn't know the first thing about inheritance laws. I sit here dumbfounded at my ignorance and angry at my deceased husband for not educating me. (Maybe HE didn't know any better either, but he should have.)

John and I were married 33 years. We have two children. Five years ago our son ran off with a girl we never liked. We haven't heard from him since. Our daughter is living in California with some hippie -- weaving baskets. We wrote her off in 1972 when she wrote us a nasty letter about our "crass materialism."

Two weeks ago John died of a heart attack. He was 57 and in the best of health. No history of a coronary problem, ever. He had a physical in December and was pronounced fit as a fiddle.

John left NO will. When the lawyers told me I am entitled by law to only one-third of my husband's estate and our daughter and son will divide the other two-thirds I almost keeled over. Yes, that's the way the law in Illinois reads and I am helpless.

I am writing in the hope that you will print this letter and wake up others who are as stupid as I was. -- Don't Know What Hit Me

Dear Don't Know: Here's your letter and I hope it gets a few million people to thinking.

Do YOU women out there know what would happen if your husband dropped dead tomorrow? If you don't call a lawyer or your insurance agent and find out.

Nobody likes to think about death, but it's virtually the only thing you can count on.

Dear Ann Landers: Today I found out by accident that my mother had a marriage before she married my dad. I don't know if any of my brothers or sisters know. (They are older.)

Should I tell my mom I just found out about her first marriage (which was a bummer) or should I act like I don't know anything?

Would it be better to ask my brothers and sisters if they know and maybe get the details from them? I am really upset and need your advice. -- Bolt From The Blue

Dear Bolt: Why play games? What you heard may or may not be true. Go directly to your mother and ask her. I believe children have a right to know about previous marriages of their parents and the information should come from Mom or Dad -- not from strangers.

Parents, what should you do if your teenager is having sexual relations? Ann Landers's new booklet, "High School Sex And How To Deal With It -- A Guide For Teens And Their Parents," gives no-nonsense advice on how to handle this delicate situation. For each booklet, send 50 cents in coin plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

Polly's Pointers

Bread bags become bargain bonanza

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. E. L. asked how to crochet rugs out of plastic bags. I have cerebral palsy and have crocheted aout 200 such rugs in the past four years. Start cutting your bags into strips about two inches wide, going from the top down and round and round the bag. I find it easier to sew the ends of these long strips together overlapping the ends about two inches Start the rug by making a chain of about 14 inches with a size K metal crochet hook. Then single crochet in each chain stitch, adding an extra single crochet at the end. Keep going around, being sure to make enough additions so the rug oval will lay nice and flat and not roll up. Crochet until the desired size is attained.

I also use old plastic tablecloths, shower curtains and drapes and even swimming pool liners — anything, as long as it is plastic. The heavier the material the narrower the strips should be cut. I also edge the bread bag rugs with a heavier plastic. If a rug seems a bit "curly" I put it under my mattress and sleep on it a couple of nights and this does a great job of pressing. — GERTHA.

DEAR READERS and Mrs. E. L. and Jean, too — Of course, some make round rugs. Then the center chain is joined an a stitch worked in each single crochet, adding additional stitches when needed to make rug lay flat. Mrs. J. W. wrote that she also uses such bags to crochet vests, stool covers, place mats, tablecloths and even bedspreads. She shakes dirt off and washes them in cool water when it is needed. L. H. tapers the ends of a cut bag in about three inches from the tips and then places tips, going in opposite directions, and sews them together for a nice flat look where bags are joined. Mrs. F. J. S. makes shopping bags by crocheting twice the length desired, and then turning half up and then crochets sides together. Handles are made of narrow strips of the same. Since they stretch she reinforces her crochet work with a strong cord that is crocheted in with the plastic strips. Doris also uses dry cleaning plastic bags for crocheting rugs and says they should be cut about six inches wide. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with gift wrap that comes on rolls with ends taped together in several spots causing a loss in paper. — NANCY.

Polly will send you one of her "peachy" thank-you cards, ideal for framing or placing in your family scrapbook, if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write Polly's Pointers in care of this newspaper.

Education institute offered

PORTAGEVILLE — The University of Missouri-Columbia has scheduled a two-week institute to meet the needs of teacher's certification. L 339, Education of the Exceptional Child will be offered as a two semester hour credit study (graduate or undergraduate) on the Columbia Campus Aug. 2-13. This course fulfills the legal requirements as stipulated in H.B. 370. All persons who are or will be in educational positions in school settings are eligible to enroll.

The course will meet from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. four days each week beginning Aug. 2 and ending Aug. 13. The Department of Specail Education will take as many enrollments as we can until the capacity to staff and teach effectively is reached. Applications must be received prior to July 23 and early enrollment is encouraged.

Confirmation of the status of your acceptance and specific instructions will be mailed to you from the campus. Application forms and additional information is available through your local University Extension Centers, Kathryn Kinnard, Delta Center, Portageville or a direct letter to Continuing Professional Education, 203 Hill Hall, Columbia, Mo. 65201.

Pork cuts on the rise

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — After a week of substantial declines in retail pork prices, the price for most pork cuts soared this week, according to the weekly marketbasket survey of the Missouri Farm Bureau.

While consumers were faced with large increases for pork, however, the retail prices of other selected items at 50 grocery stores across the state were generally steady or declining, the survey showed.

Leading the hikes in pork prices were butt portions of ham and blade roast, both rising 12 cents a pound to $1.24 and $1.38 respectively.

Pork steak was up nine cents a pound to $1.39 followed by shank portions of ham, which rose seven cents a pound to $1.06.

Only center cut chops recorded a decline, falling three cents to $1.81 a pound.

Increases for beef were small as three cuts rose only a penny a pound—blade roast to 89 cents, Rib steak to $1.70 and sirloin steak to $1.81.

Mandatory retirement may end

By STEVE CAHALAN
University of Missouri
Washington Reporting Program

Washington-- To the delight of many older Americans, Congress is considering legislation that would prevent mandatory retirement because of age. However, some labor and business leaders say they fear a ban on compulsory retirement might cause higher unemployment rates and disruption of pension and social security programs.

Forty-four congressmen and nine senators are sponsoring identical bills which were introduced last year. The House Equal Opportunity Subcommittee conducted initial hearings last month and may hold additional hearings this session. Senate hearings probably will not begin until the House votes on the bill.

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., who introduced the House version, predicts that increasing public pressure will ensure House passage in the next session of Congress. However, the bill faces strong opposition from labor and business lobbyists, though interest groups have generally not taken official or public positions on the bill. Many lobbyists haven't heard of the proposal.

The bill has both liberal and conservative sponsors. In the House, sponsors include liberals Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., and Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., along with conservative John Rousselot, R-Calif. In the Senate, conservative Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., and liberal Frank Church, D-Idaho, are among the bill's backers.

Supporters cite U.S. Bureau of Census estimates that the number of persons age 65 and older will continue to increase, placing an increasing burden on working persons whose taxes fund the social security system.

The census bureau estimates that in July 1975 about 22.4 million of the nation's 213.1 million persons, 10.5 percent of the total population, were age 65 or older. The bureau estimates that by the year 2000 nearly 30.6 million persons, or 11.7 percent of the population, will be in this age category. By 2030, when persons born in the baby boom of the 1950s have reached age 65, an estimated 51.6 million persons will be in that category, representing 17 per cent of the nation's population.

Associations of elderly people voice strong support for the bills now before Congress. Faye Mench, lobbyist for the American Association of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers Association, says mandatory retirement policies do not take into account whether employes are qualified to continue working.

"Having a mandatory retirement age is an easy out for the employer," Mrs. Mench says. "He doesn't have to tell someone that they're senile or otherwise incapable." She says employers should tell incapable employes that they are no longer qualified, rather than impose mandatory retirement ages.

John Martin, legislative consultant to the retired persons and retired teachers associations, adds that forced retirement can be damaging to physical and psychological health.

"We really don't have an official position," says Michael Markowitz, director of labor relations for the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM). "But we would tend to oppose the bill on the theory that it extends government regulation where it is not needed." NAM spokesmen say mandatory retirement policies allow employers to make way for younger workers, while saving themselves and their employes the unpleasant experience of declaring individual workers unfit because of senility or some other age-related malady.

The AFL-CIO wants mandatory retirement to be subject to collective bargaining. Union officials fear that ending these retirement policies would mean fewer jobs for young workers.

When the congressional bills receive additional publicity, women's organizations can be expected to express their support, says Findley aide Chuck Cooney. Mandatory retirement discriminates especially against women, he says. Because women often enter the work force late in life, after they have raised families, they sometimes don't accumulate enough years' experience to qualify for pension plans, Cooney says.

Melissa Thompson, legislative coordinator for the National Organization of Women (NOW), says that although her organization has not officially endorsed the bill, a NOW task force has.

Other interest groups may announce support or opposition to the bill's once its effects on unemployment rates, pension plans and social security programs are known. Findley contends that unemployment would not increase, as the economy could accommodate the large work force and because most older people would retire voluntarily. Findley says that existing pension plans would not be endangered, arguing that banning mandatory retirement would force employers to provide increased incentive for employes to retire.

Americans apparently oppose mandatory retirement because of age. According to a 1975 Harris poll made for the National Council on the Aging, 86 per cent of all Americans oppose forced retirement, except for health reasons. However, 49 per cent said older workers should retire to allow room for younger workers to move up.

President's List

HENDERSON, Tenn. — Jana Lynn Sims, daughter of Patsy Ruth Sims of Sikeston, has been placed on the President's List at Freed-Hardeman College for the spring semester.

In order to become eligible for the President's List, a student must earn a 3.30 or above grade point average (based on the 4.0 scale).

Miss Sims, a graduate of Sikeston Senior High School, is majoring in education.

Heat is the principal effect of infra-red rays and chemical action that of ultra-violet rays.

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Bottle Fever" is rising in the Bicentennial search for the six oldest or most unusual American-made glass containers. Thousands of Americans are entering rare bottles in the nationwide competition, reports the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute.

"We have discovered several dozen bottles of great age or rarity," says Kenneth Wilson, director of collections at the Henry Ford Museum who is overseeing the search.

GCMI is offering owners of the six winning bottles an all expense paid trip to the Jamestown, Va., Glasshouse, site of America's first factory industry.

Woman's bid for freedom begins today

YORK, Neb. (AP) — Caril Fugate takes her dream for freedom before the State Parole Board today, 18 years after she accompanied Charles Starkweather on a nightmare killing spree that left 10 persons dead.

Miss Fugate, now 32, has spent more than half her life in prison.

Some testimony opposing Miss Fugate's parole was expected today, corrections officials said.

If the five-member board decides to parole her, she could be freed June 20 and assume a new identity arranged for her in another state.

Miss Fugate was 14 and Starkweather was 19 when their journey of death began on a Monday in 1958. Nine persons were shot and stabbed to death in the Lincoln area, and a 10th was shot and killed on a highway near Douglas, Wyo., before the teen-age couple was caught.

Starkweather later admitted an unsolved killing near Lincoln, raising the death count to 11. He was executed in 1959 and Miss Fugate was sentenced to life in prison.

Miss Fugate has said she was coerced by Starkweather into accompanying him. Starkweather testified she was a willing helper and said or implied she was involved in as many as six killings.

In 1973 she told the Pardon Board, "If I would have to stay in this institution for the rest of my life, I would stand upon these grounds: I am not guilty."

Sorority awards college scholarships

Mary Jo Allen of Dexter and Jamie Hemmer of Bloomfield are the recipients of the 1976 Alpha Delta Kappa Scholarships in the amount of $100 each, according to Mrs. LaVelle Smith of Dexter, the group's retiring president.

Alpha Delta Kappa is an honorary educational sorority with members from Dexter, Bloomfield and Puxico.

Miss Allen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Allen of Dexter, is a 1976 graduate of Dexter High School and was an honor student. She was assistant editor of the Reveille and a majorette in the high school band. She plans to attend Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau and study physical education.

Miss Hemmer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hemmer of Bloomfield, is a 1976 graduate of Bloomfield High School. She will also attend Southeast Missouri State University, where she plans to major in business. She was an honor student in high school and vice president of Future Homemakers of America. She was treasurer of the senior class and a member of the choir and pep club.

Mrs. Jeannetta Pogue, Puxico, recording secretary; Mrs. Marty Thompson, Dexter, treasurer; Mrs. Reita Lebeau, Dexter, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Louisa Quick, Bloomfield, chaplain; and Joanne Newcomer, Bloomfield, historian.

Mrs. Landon Brown of Dexter was co-hostess of the meeting.

FTC judge says diet pill claims false

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marketers of the "X-11" diet pill must stop using advertisements that claim its pill has a unique ingredient allowing people to lose weight without eating less.

The advertising claims are false, a Federal Trade Commission administrative law judge, Daniel Hanscom, said today.

The judge said the pill does not cause most users to lose weight unless they cut caloric intake. The key ingredient, phenylpropanalomine, is used in several other over-the-counter diet products, he noted.

Hanscom said that the respondents had no reason to believe that most X-11 users would lose a substantial amount of weight, as the questionable advertising states.

Orange juice prices may fall

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Prices for frozen orange juice concentrate probably will be forced down by inventories millions of gallons larger than first reported, citrus industry spokesmen say.

Industry experts said understated inventories could cost growers as much as $8 million, with wholesale prices falling as much as 15 cents on a dozen six-ounce cans of the frozen concentrate. That could mean a drop of a penny a can or more at the supermarket.

The Florida Canners Association announced the new inventory figures over the weekend and said it would conduct an immediate inquiry.

"Based on statistical data reported to us, it appears the inventory of bulk (frozen concentrated orange juice) may have been between two million gallons and five million gallons greater than our past reports have shown," the association said. "We have initiated steps to enable us to determine the correct figures."

There were predictions that wholesale orange juice concentrate prices could fall as early as next week.

Reader raises racket about tennis dress

Dear Ann Landers: Now that every housewife in America has decided she is going to take up tennis, I hope you will print this letter for them to see.

Please, ladies, tennis outfits are supposed to be worn on the courts, not on buses, in supermarkets, to the beauty shop and while running neighborhood errands.

You do not look fetching with your fannies hanging out of the ruffled panties and a blue network of varicose veins exposed for the world to see.

Would you consider going marketing in your underwear or a bathing suit? Well, why parade around in something that shows just as much?

If you don't care how you look, consider please those of us who have to look at you. Thanks a lot. -- Mr. John Q. Public

Dear John: I can't say that I've seen a great many tennis outfits on the loose, but then I live in the heart of town and I haven't been in many supermarkets lately.

If the shoe fits, girls, put it on -- or take it off.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a fairly intelligent woman (or so I thought) in a state of shock. Why? Because I didn't know the first thing about inheritance laws. I sit here dumbfounded at my ignorance and angry at my deceased husband for not educating me. (Maybe HE didn't know any better either, but he should have.)

John and I were married 33 years. We have two children. Five years ago our son ran off with a girl we never liked. We haven't heard from him since. Our daughter is living in California with some hippie -- weaving baskets. We wrote her off in 1972 when she wrote us a nasty letter about our "crass materialism."

Two weeks ago John died of a heart attack. He was 57 and in the best of health. No history of a coronary problem, ever. He had a physical in December and was pronounced fit as a fiddle.

John left NO will. When the lawyers told me I am entitled by law to only one-third of my husband's estate and our daughter and son will divide the other two-thirds I almost keeled over. Yes, that's the way the law in Illinois reads and I am helpless.

As cute as a baby fawn is, it is a wild animal and conservation officials urge citizens to leave fawns and other wild baby animals alone. The small animals frequently are picked up in the spring by well-meaning people who think they are abandoned because the mother isn't visible. The babies seldom are abandoned and taking the wild babies creates far more problems than it solves.

Hrabosky's 'controlled hate mood' helps Cardinals hold off Houston rally

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston catcher Cliff Johnson has to take part credit for St. Louis' 7-6 victory over the Astros Monday night because he put Cardinals reliever Al Hrabosky into his controlled hate mood.

That's how Hrabosky described his feeling after Johnson clubbed a two-run homer in the eighth inning and brought the Astros within striking distance of the Cards, who had battered loser Joe Niekro for five first inning runs.

"When something like that happens, I get very aggressive," Hrabosky said. "I call it my controlled hate mood. Here's where you find the real ball players. It's easy to make a bad pitch to the next guy because you're mad at yourself.

"I was at that stage a few years ago. But now I try to channel that anger at the next batter."

After Johnson's two-run homer, Hrabosky got the next two Astros out to end the inning.

In the pressure-packed ninth, Hrabosky yielded a full-count double to pinchhitter Jerry 'daVanon to lead off the inning. That put the tying run on secnd base with none out and the top of Houston's batting order coming to the plate.

Enter again the controlled hate mood.

Hrabosky twitched his Fu Manchu mustache and got Wilbur Howard on a popout, walked Rob Andrews, struck out Cesdar Cedeno and got Bob Watson to hit into a game-ending groundout.

"I enjoy those tight situations," Hrabosky said. "I don't mean to bring up money, but you've got to be a pressure player to make it. It doesn't mean a thing unless you can do it when everything is on the line. I get lackadaisical when I have a big lead."

St. Louis gave starter and winner John Curtiz a 5-0 lead in the first inning on singles by Lou Brock, Willie Crawford and Mike Tyson, Hector Cruz' double and Niekro's fielding error.

Leon Roberts scooted home from third with Houston's first run in the second on a passed ball by catcher Ted Simmons.

The Cardinals made it 6-1 in the fourth when Curtis walked and scored on Brock's sacrifice fly.

The Astros pulled to a 6-4 deficit with three runs in the seventh on a run-scoring double by pinch hitter Ken Boswell and Andrews' two-run single.

St. Louis added a big run in the eighth when Lee Richards singled, went to second on a sacrifice, took third on a single and scored on reliever Gen Pentz' wild pitch.

That proved to be the winning run when Johnson whacked his two-run shot in the eighth after Leon Roberts had singled.

Girls softball play gets underway

Action in the Sikeston Womens and Girls Softball League got into full swing last night with four games. In Major Division play, First National bombed Mid-Delta 13-3, while the Daily Standard ripped Kiwanis 25-10. In the Senior Division, Strickland stopped Williams 19-8 and the Eagles outslugged Citizens Bank 27-20.

Little Leaguers begin play

After a week of rainouts, the Sikeston Little League finally got its 1976 season started last night with a full schedule of games at the Sikeston Recreational Complex.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pizza Inn defeated Security National Bank 5-4 and A&B edged Kiwanis 14-12 in National League action Monday night at the Complex.

Green hurled a one-hitter for Pizza Inn in picking up the win. Johnson suffered the loss while giving up seven hits.

Each team scored twice in the opening frame but Pizza Inn took the lead with two runs in the third inning. After Security National tied the game 4-4, Pizza Inn won the game with a run by Bell in the sixth.

Perry and Wolferding had two hits apiece for Security National and Mark Moore had the only hit for Pizza Inn.

Kiwanis and A&B staged a run scoring duel with A&B coming out on top 14-12. Bean was the losing pitcher and Childers was the winner.

A&B took a 4-3 lead after the first inning of play and added another run in the second. Kiwanis scored six times in the third frame and A&B crossed the plate nine times in the see-saw battle.

McReynolds was the leading hitter for Kiwanis with two basehits.

A&B was led in batting by Childers and Griffen with two hits apiece.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Nunnelee and Bridger won their first games of the season after a week of rainouts. Nunnelee trounced Moores Firestone 21-14 and Bridger belted First National 12-5 in American League play.

Lee was the victim of the 12 hit assault by Nunnelee. Butler allowed only four hits in picking up the victory.

Nunnelee ripped their opponents pitching for 12 runs in the second inning to put the game away early. They scored six more in the third inning and added their last three in the fifth. Moore scored a run in the first and three more in the second.

Kimbell and Butler had big nights at the bat for Nunnelee with three hits apiece. Chappell and Lee collected two hits apiece for Moores Firestone.

Bridger put together a total of 20 hits to score 12 runs in beating First National. First National banged out 10 hits but could score only five times.

Merrell had the big stick with five hits in five times at bat for Bridger. Grey collected three safeties in four times at bat.

Flippo was the winning pitcher and Gilbow took the loss for First National.

MUSIAL LEAGUE

In the Musial League Rotary defeated Flower Basket 9-5 and Daily Standard whipped Kingsway 12-7.

Buchanan pitched a one-hitter for Rotary to pick up the win. Clark suffered the loss while giving up only four hits for Flower Basket.

Rotary scored three runs in the first inning to take the lead but couldn't hold it as Flower Basket tied the game in the second inning. Rotary scored five times in the fifth inning to win the game.

McRay collected three of the four hits Rotary had in the game. Mays had the only hit for Flower Basket.

Hutton pitched the Daily Standard past Kingsway. Perkins took the loss. The Daily Standard took a 3-0 lead in the first inning and added another in the second for a 4-0 lead but Kingsway battled back and scored six runs in the third inning.

Pollard had three hits for the Daily Standard and Perkins and Curry had two hits apiece for Kingsway.

Merger could cost ABA teams several million

NEW YORK (AP) — Owners of four American Basketball Association franchises say they are willing to pay the price, steep though it may be, to join the National Basketball Association and end the often heated, nine-year-old rivalry of the two pro leagues.

Heads of the ABA's Denver, New York, Indiana and San Antonio franchises have decided that if they get the opportunity, they will agree to an itiation fee of $4.5 million apiece to join the NBA.

But that $4.5 million is just the beginning. High ABA sources estimate that it could cost a franchise anywhere from $6.5 million to $8 million to get into the NBA. And for the New York Nets, who would almost certainly have to pay a territorial indemnity to the NBA's New York Knicks, it could run as high as $12 million.

For the owners of the to other ABA franchises, Kentucky and St. Louis, those figures were simply too high.

Those two clubs have agreed to bow out of the picture on one condition — that the remaining four ABA teams buy out their franchises. It was not clear whether the other clubs had agreed to do so at their meeting in Chicago which ended Monday, although if that were the only thing holding up a merger they undoubtedly would.

Such action would remove one major stumbling block to consolidation of the rival leagues. Though no forml offer was made, the NBA's expansion committee, at an interleague meeting May 28, laid the groundwork for future negotiation by suggesting that the senior circuit might be willing to accept four ABA teams at $4.5 million per.

The immediate problem was that the ABA had six clubs — what to do about the other two?

That has apparently been resolved by the cost factor.

The reason Kentucky — and the owners of the St. Louis club, which had been slated to be moved to Utah — declined is money.

John Y. Brown, outspoken president of the ABA and husband of Ellie, owner of the Colonels, said the price for joining the NBA "was totally unrealistic. They priced Louisville out of the market. Somewhere in pro sports, rational reason is going to have to take its place."

The money is also a big windfall, it you look at it from the other side. The $4.5 million initiation fee for the four incoming teams breaks down to an even $1 million for each of the existing 18 NBA clubs.

As cute as a baby fawn is, it is a wild animal and conservation officials urge citizens to leave fawns and other wild baby animals alone. The small animals frequently are picked up in the spring by well-meaning people who think they are abandoned because the mother isn't visible. The babies seldom are abandoned and taking the wild babies creates far more problems than it solves.

Hrabosky's 'controlled hate mood' helps Cardinals hold off Houston rally

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston catcher Cliff Johnson has to take part credit for St. Louis' 7-6 victory over the Astros Monday night because he put Cardinals reliever Al Hrabosky into his controlled hate mood.

That's how Hrabosky described his feeling after Johnson clubbed a two-run homer in the eighth inning and brought the Astros within striking distance of the Cards, who had battered loser Joe Niekro for five first inning runs.

"When something like that happens, I get very aggressive," Hrabosky said. "I call it my controlled hate mood. Here's where you find the real ball players. It's easy to make a bad pitch to the next guy because you're mad at yourself

"I was at that stage a few years ago. But now I try to channel that anger at the next batter."

After Johnson's two-run homer, Hrabosky got the next two Astros out to end the inning.

In the pressure-packed ninth, Hrabosky yielded a full-count double to pinchhitter Jerry 'daVanon to lead off the inning. That put the tying run on secnd base with none out and the top of Houston's batting order coming to the plate.

Enter again the controlled hate mood.

Hrabosky twitched his Fu Manchu mustache and got Wilbur Howard on a popout, walked Rob Andrews, struck out Cesdar Cedeno and got Bob Watson to hit into a game-ending groundout.

"I enjoy those tight situations," Hrabosky said. "I don't mean to bring up money, but you've got to be a pressure player to make it. It doesn't mean a thing unless you can do it when everything is on the line. I get lackadaisical when I have a big lead."

St. Louis gave starter and winner John Curtiz a 5-0 lead in the first inning on singles by Lou Brock, Willie Crawford and Mike Tyson, Hector Cruz' double and Niekro's fielding error.

Leon Roberts scooted home from third with Houston's first run in the second on a passed ball by catcher Ted Simmons.

The Cardinals made it 6-1 in the fourth when Curtis walked and scored on Brock's sacrifice fly.

The Astros pulled to a 6-4 deficit with three runs in the seventh on a run-scoring double by pinch hitter Ken Boswell and Andrews' two-run single.

St. Louis added a big run in the eighth when Lee Richards singled, went to second on a sacrifice, took third on a single and scored on reliever Gen Pentz' wild pitch.

That proved to be the winning run when Johnson whacked his two-run shot in the eighth after Leon Roberts had singled.

Girls softball play gets underway

Action in the Sikeston Womens and Girls Softball League got into full swing last night with four games. In Major Division play, First National bombed Mid-Delta 13-3, while the Daily Standard ripped Kiwanis 25-10. In the Senior Division, Strickland stopped Williams 19-8 and the Eagles outslugged Citizens Bank 27-20.

Little Leaguers begin play

After a week of rainouts, the Sikeston Little League finally got its 1976 season started last night with a full schedule of games at the Sikeston Recreational Complex.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pizza Inn defeated Security National Bank 5-4 and A&B edged Kiwanis 14-12 in National League action Monday night at the Complex.

Green hurled a one-hitter for Pizza Inn in picking up the win. Johnson suffered the loss while giving up seven hits.

Each team scored twice in the opening frame but Pizza Inn took the lead with two runs in the third inning. After Security National tied the game 4-4, Pizza Inn won the game with a run by Bell in the sixth.

Perry and Wolferding had two hits apiece for Security National and Mark Moore had the only hit for Pizza Inn.

Kiwanis and A&B staged a run scoring duel with A&B coming out on top 14-12. Bean was the losing pitcher and Childers was the winner.

A&B took a 4-3 lead after the first inning of play and added another run in the second. Kiwanis scored six times in the third frame and A&B crossed the plate nine times in the see-saw battle.

McReynolds was the leading hitter for Kiwanis with two basehits.

A&B was led in batting by Childers and Griffen with two hits apiece.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Nunnelee and Bridger won their first games of the season after a week of rainouts. Nunnelee trounced Moores Firestone 21-14 and Bridger belted First National 12-5 in American League play.

Lee was the victim of the 12 hit assault by Nunnelee. Butler allowed only four hits in picking up the victory.

Nunnelee ripped their opponents pitching for 12 runs in the second inning to put the game away early. They scored six more in the third inning and added their last three in the fifth. Moore scored a run in the first and three more in the second.

Kimbell and Butler had big nights at the bat for Nunnelee with three hits apiece. Chappell and Lee collected two hits apiece for Moores Firestone.

Bridger put together a total of 20 hits to score 12 runs in beating First National. First National banged out 10 hits but could score only five times.

Merrell had the big stick with five hits in five times at bat for Bridger. Grey collected three safeties in four times at bat.

Flippo was the winning pitcher and Gilbow took the loss for First National.

MUSIAL LEAGUE

In the Musial League Rotary defeated Flower Basket 9-5 and Daily Standard whipped Kingsway 12-7.

Buchanan pitched a one-hitter for Rotary to pick up the win. Clark suffered the loss while giving up only four hits for Flower Basket.

Rotary scored three runs in the first inning to take the lead but couldn't hold it as Flower Basket tied the game in the second inning. Rotary scored five times in the fifth inning to win the game.

McRay collected three of the four hits Rotary had in the game. Mays had the only hit for Flower Basket.

Hutton pitched the Daily Standard past Kingsway. Perkins took the loss. The Daily Standard took a 3-0 lead in the first inning and added another in the second for a 4-0 lead but Kingsway battled back and scored six runs in the third inning.

Pollard had three hits for the Daily Standard and Perkins and Curry had two hits apiece for Kingsway.

Merger could cost ABA teams several million

NEW YORK (AP) — Owners of four American Basketball Association franchises say they are willing to pay the price, steep though it may be, to join the National Basketball Association and end the often heated, nine-year-old rivalry of the two pro leagues.

Heads of the ABA's Denver, New York, Indiana and San Antonio franchises have decided that if they get the opportunity, they will agree to an itiation fee of $4.5 million apiece to join the NBA.

But that $4.5 million is just the beginning. High ABA sources estimate that it could cost a franchise anywhere from $6.5 million to $8 million to get into the NBA. And for the New York Nets, who would almost certainly have to pay a territorial indemnity to the NBA's New York Knicks, it could run as high as $12 million.

For the owners of the to other ABA franchises, Kentucky and St. Louis, those figures were simply too high.

Those two clubs have agreed to bow out of the picture on one condition — that the remaining four ABA teams buy out their franchises. It was not clear whether the other clubs had agreed to do so at their meeting in Chicago which ended Monday, although if that were the only thing holding up a merger they undoubtedly would.

Such action would remove one major stumbling block to consolidation of the rival leagues. Though no forml offer was made, the NBA's expansion committee, at an interleague meeting May 28, laid the groundwork for future negotiation by suggesting that the senior circuit might be willing to accept four ABA teams at $4.5 million per.

The immediate problem was that the ABA had six clubs — what to do about the other two?

That has apparently been resolved by the cost factor.

The reason Kentucky — and the owners of the St. Louis club, which had been slated to be moved to Utah — declined is money.

John Y. Brown, outspoken president of the ABA and husband of Ellie, owner of the Colonels, said the price for joining the NBA "was totally unrealistic. They priced Louisville out of the market. Somewhere in pro sports, rational reason is going to have to take its place."

The money is also a big windfall, if you look at it from the other side. The $4.5 million initiation fee for the four incoming teams breaks down to an even $1 million for each of the existing 18 NBA clubs.

Lasters opens SBRL with shutout

The Sikeston Senior Babe Ruth League opened the 1976 season with two games at V.F.W. Stadium Monday night. Kevin Lasters pitched a two-hitter as Craig Pools beat Jim Moore 6-0. Catcher David Shell backed up Roger Cloud's five-hitter with a double and single as Security National beat Security Bank and Trust 11-2.

In the first game, Craig's hurler allowed just one opponent to reach third in fashioning the shutout. Lasters' mound opponent, Don Francis, fanned 12 while allowing just four hits. One of those safeties, however, was a big, three-run triple in the fourth by leftfielder Kerry Lasters for the winners.

Bill Hampton and Allan Davidson had the only hits for Jim Moore.

Security National used six hits, seven walks and five errors to run away with the second game. They scored five runs before Trust ever crossed the plate. The contest was halted after six innings because of time.

In addition to Shell's double, versatile Kenny Standridge played second, third, caught and had a run-scoring triple, single and walk in four trips.

Cloud fanned nine in six inning. Loser Rob Newman was knocked out in the first.

Vernie Deane hurled a two-hitter for Steward Steel and defeated Security National Bank 8-0 here Monday night in the first game of the Sikeston Fastpitch Softball League. In the second game of the night Tom Stinnett fired a one-hitter for the 76'ers and beat the Bank of Sikeston 7-0.

Fred Steward jumped on losing pitcher Sonny Heacox of Security Bank for a homerun, triple and double in going 3-for-4 at the plate.

Steward Steel wasted no time getting on the scoreboard as they scored two runs in the second, four in the fourth and one in the third and sixth.

The victory left Steward Steel with a 2-2 slate and Security is 2-3.

In the second game Tony Green led all hitters with 3-for-4 at the plate. The lone hit off Stinnett came in the fifth inning as Rick Dyer doubled.

The 76-ers wrapped the game up with three runs in the first inning. They added one in the third and three in the seventh. The victory was the first of the season.

Indians down Livingston; play SIU this evening

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Florida Southern, the defending NCAA Division II baseball champion was knocked out of the 1976 tournament Monday night by California Poly University of Pomona, 5-1. Earlier, Southeast Missouri defeated Livingston Alabama 9-7.

California Poly's Gil Molina and Paul Porowski of Florida Southern engaged in a scoreless pitcher's duel for six innings. California Poly pushed over two runs in the seventh but Florida Southern came back for its lone run in the eighth. California knocked Porowski out of the box in the ninth inning by scoring three runs.

Molina, who was relieved in the ninth by B.J. Johnson, limited Florida Southern to five hits.

Southeast Missouri jumped off with four runs in the opening inning of the earlier game, and held a four-to-two lead until the sixth, when they added two more runs. Livingston Alabama came back with single runs in the seventh and eighth to make the score six to four. Both teams scored three runs in the ninth inning.

Southeast had 15 hits to Livingston's 13.

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville remains undefeated in the tournament and will play both Southeast Missouri and California Poly Tuesday night.

Spitz: $5 million dud

NEW YORK (AP) — Swimmer Mark Spitz parlayed his seven Olympic gold medals into a $5 million contract, but found only tarnished riches at the end of his rainbow.

Some have labeled him the "$5 Million Dud."

"I was a porpoise out of water," the handsome, 26-year-old swimming wizard said as he pondered one of sport's most astonishing disappointments.

"I was not prepared for the adulation I received. I could not handle the total world," added Spitz in his first introspective interview since dropping out of the spotlight after his 1972 triumph.

Hollywood-handsome, one of the great athletes of the age, a natural for a lucrative career in the movies and on television, the young Californian discovered that his greatest claim to fame was that he drank milk.

"Every time I went into a restaurant or a lounge, they wanted to give me a free glass of milk," Spitz said, recalling the reaction to one of his many television commercials. "I may have helped the milk industry but I found people joking and making fun of me for drinking milk."

Returning from Munich in 1972, with his unprecedented seven gold medals and seven world records, Spitz was hailed as a national hero. He was invited to Washington, where members of Congress gave him a reception normally accorded princes and potentates. Agents fawned over him. Women gushed.

Madison Avenue went batty. He was the hottest commercial commodity of the generation. He was called "the greatest hero since Lindbergh." The William Morris Agency, which specializes in Hollywood talent, landed him for $5 million.

Endorsement bids poured in from all over the world. A clothes manufacturer in Portugal offered $1 million for a five-year contract. A West German sporting goods company proposed $40,000 if Spitz would plug its products. Similar offers came from other companies.

The Morris Agency went to work getting America accustomed to the face of the good-looking Olympic champion. He made his public debut on the Bob Hope Show—normally a springboard to stardom. He saturated the TV screens with appearances on the talk shows—Dinah Shore, Mike Douglas, Merv Griffin, Johnny Carson.

He began—for a princely price—plugging everything from electric razors to swimming pools, milk to hair dryers and credit cards. His price tag for personal appearances was $12,500.

The 'Mark Spitz Look" became the thing. Young business types copied the bushy dark hair hanging just slightly over the ears and the well-trimmed mustache.

Then, suddenly, Spitz all but disappeared from the nation's TV screens, except in periodic commercials. His projected movie career went sour.

Norman Brokaw, the agency executive who handled this fragile piece of china, made the excuse that Spitz had been offered as many as 30 movie roles but all had been turned down because they were wrong for his image.

"Everyone wanted to do a Tarzan remake," Brokaw said. "You can't take a hero and have him play a bank robber right away."

Looking back, Spitz could see the matter with greater objectivity and honesty.

"In the beginning, there might have been some exploitation," he said. "Some of the parts were real crazy, not adaptable to my personality. But the situation is stagnant now. I think Hollywood has forgotten about me."

Spitz acknowledged that the fault may lie with his personality. As the world's best swimmer, he was sullen and introverted. He hated interviews. He often ignored and even insulted the press. He was jealous of his own privacy.

"I will admit it, I am a complex person," he said. "I am the first to realize my faults.

"After all, I had spent 12 years of my life swimming and disciplining myself. During that period, I had no chance to cultivate a grace in dealing with other people. I hated to have people always pulling at me, saying, 'Do this, do that.' Undoubtedly, I built up an animosity."

Lasters opens SBRL with shutout

The Sikeston Senior Babe Ruth League opened the 1976 season with two games at V.F.W. Stadium Monday night. Kevin Lasters pitched a two-hitter as Craig Pools beat Jim Moore 6-0. Catcher David Shell backed up Roger Cloud's five-hitter with a double and single as Security National beat Security Bank and Trust 11-2.

In the first game, Craig's hurler allowed just one opponent to reach third in fashioning the shutout. Lasters' mound opponent, Don Francis, fanned 12 while allowing just four hits. One of those safeties, however, was a big, three-run triple in the fourth by leftfielder Kerry Lasters for the winners.

Bill Hampton and Allan Davidson had the only hits for Jim Moore.

Security National used six hits, seven walks and five errors to run away with the second game. They scored five runs before Trust ever crossed the plate. The contest was halted after six innings because of time.

In addition to Shell's double, versatile Kenny Standridge played second, third, caught and had a run-scoring triple, single and walk in four trips.

Cloud fanned nine in six inning. Loser Rob Newman was knocked out in the first.

Spitz: $5 million dud

NEW YORK (AP) — Swimmer Mark Spitz parlayed his seven Olympic gold medals into a $5 million contract, but found only tarnished riches at the end of his rainbow.

Some have labeled him the "$5 Million Dud."

"I was a porpoise out of water," the handsome, 26-year-old swimming wizard said as he pondered one of sport's most astonishing disappointments.

"I was not prepared for the adulation I received. I could not handle the total world," added Spitz in his first introspective interview since dropping out of the spotlight after his 1972 triumph.

Hollywood-handsome, one of the great athletes of the age, a natural for a lucrative career in the movies and on television, the young Californian discovered that his greatest claim to fame was that he drank milk.

"Every time I went into a restaurant or a lounge, they wanted to give me a free glass of milk," Spitz said, recalling the reaction to one of his many television commercials. "I may have helped the milk industry but I found people joking and making fun of me for drinking milk."

Returning from Munich in 1972, with his unprecedented seven gold medals and seven world records, Spitz was hailed as a national hero. He was invited to Washington, where members of Congress gave him a reception normally accorded princes and potentates. Agents fawned over him. Women gushed.

Madison Avenue went batty. He was the hottest commercial commodity of the generation. He was called "the greatest hero since Lindbergh." The William Morris Agency, which specializes in Hollywood talent, landed him for $5 million.

Endorsement bids poured in from all over the world. A clothes manufacturer in Portugal offered $1 million for a five-year contract. A West German sporting goods company proposed $40,000 if Spitz would plug its products. Similar offers came from other companies.

The Morris Agency went to work getting America accustomed to the face of the good-looking Olympic champion. He made his public debut on the Bob Hope Show—normally a springboard to stardom. He saturated the TV screens with appearances on the talk shows—Dinah Shore, Mike Douglas, Merv Griffin, Johnny Carson.

He began—for a princely price—plugging everything from electric razors to swimming pools, milk to hair dryers and credit cards. His price tag for personal appearances was $12,500.

The 'Mark Spitz Look" became the thing. Young business types copied the bushy dark hair hanging just slightly over the ears and the well-trimmed mustache.

Then, suddenly, Spitz all but disappeared from the nation's TV screens, except in periodic commercials. His projected movie career went sour.

Norman Brokaw, the agency executive who handled this fragile piece of china, made the excuse that Spitz had been offered as many as 30 movie roles but all had been turned down because they were wrong for his image.

"Everyone wanted to do a Tarzan remake," Brokaw said. "You can't take a hero and have him play a bank robber right away."

Looking back, Spitz could see the matter with greater objectivity and honesty.

"In the beginning, there might have been some exploitation," he said. "Some of the parts were real crazy, not adaptable to my personality. But the situation is stagnant now. I think Hollywood has forgotten about me."

Spitz acknowledged that the fault may lie with his personality. As the world's best swimmer, he was sullen and introverted. He hated interviews. He often ignored and even insulted the press. He was jealous of his own privacy.

"I will admit it, I am a complex person," he said. "I am the first to realize my faults.

"After all, I had spent 12 years of my life swimming and disciplining myself. During that period, I had no chance to cultivate a grace in dealing with other people. I hated to have people always pulling at me, saying, 'Do this, do that.' Undoubtedly, I built up an animosity."

New stop signs are installed

50 years ago
June 8, 1926

Ground has been broken for the building which Harry Young is erecting just opposite the City Hall on Center street. Ben Welter, who owns the lot adjoining that of Young, is also planning to build this fall. The Bank of Sikeston is also planning to build a new three-story bank building some time in the near future at the corner of Center and New Madrid.

J. F. Cox and F. M. Robbins of New Madrid joined the Golf Club Wednesday.

Marion Johnson left Thursday for St. Louis, where he will work in the shoe factory.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Meyer moved into their newly completed cottage on North Ranney avenue Thursday.

Two hundred twenty-four dollars worth of new stop signs were installed Tuesday at the intersections of the principal thoroughfares of Sikeston by L. W. Ables, street commissioner.

Matthews -- Mrs. J. P. Rice and little son of St. Louis spent the weekend here with relatives.

Landers Ridge -- Mrs. James Lomax entertained with an ice cream supper Saturday complimentary to her daughter, Mildred, the occasion being her birth anniversary.

Recently elected Lions Club officers were installed Wednesday at a short meeting in the Marshall Hotel. Clay Mitchell was installed as president; J. Ernest Harper, first vice-president; Ralph Potashnick, tail twister; O. T. Elder, Lion tamer; Milburn Arbaugh, denkeeper; and J. William Foley and H. G. Sharp, directors. Ralph Anderson is secretary.

Mrs. Caleb Smith, now living in St. Louis, expects to join her husband in the near future to make her home here.

Mrs. W. H. Heddon and daughters, Misses Edna and Bonita, came from Cape Girardeau Monday to join Mr. Heddon, who is manager of the Sikeston Tractor and Implement Co., here. They are living in the Granville Phillips property on Park avenue.

The City Council met Monday night and directed the mayor, city attorney and city clerk to buy the Berry-Patmor & Day building, 316 South Kingshighway, for $55,000 to be remodeled for use as city administrative offices.

Newcomers to Sikeston as reported by Mrs. Fred Steward, Welcome Wagon Hostess, are reported as follows: Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Martin, formerly of Charleston, are residing in an apartment at 238 West Gladys. Mr. Martin is employed by the Clinton Construction Co.

Mr. and Ms. Thelemer Patterson and two sons are residing at 811 Wayne. They were formerly of Morley. Mr. Patterson is manager of the Sinclair station, Ranney and Kingshighway.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hargrove came from Morehouse and have purchased a home at 855 Agnes. Mr. Hargrove is associated in the Auto Transport Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Pfifer of Matthews are parents of a baby girl born on the fourth at the Delta Community Hospital.

A baby daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hopkins of Hayti on May 31st. Mr. Hopkins is a trooper with State Highway Patrol and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Fowler of Blodgett.

Mrs. John Schlosser, mother of P. J. Schlosser of Sikeston, died yesterday at her home in Illmo, at the age of 77 years.

Miss Ellen Cline, 224 North Prairie, Sikeston, is the latest of six entries already filed with the Chamber of Commerce in the contest to select the 1956 Maid of Milk, feature of this year's Dairy Month observance sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. Also received is the entry of Miss Judy Shanley of Diehlstadt.

Mrs. George W. Hagy died at the Delta Community Hospital early this morning, nine days after the death of an infant daughter.

L. R. Burns, who was employed by the State Highway Department in Sikeston 20 years, has been promoted to assistant engineer of the Division of Surveys and Plans, Jefferson City.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey, 307 Greer street, are parents of a son born on the fifth at the local hospital.

Among the 1,400 students, who will receive degrees at Washington University's 95th annual commencement today, in the field house are two from the Sikeston area. They are: John Howard Kendig, son of Mrs. H. M. Kendig, 536 Park avenue, who will receive the degree of doctor of medicine; and Miss Jo Ann Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Jackson of Morehouse, who will receive a diploma in nursing.

Consumer hints to be televised

ST. LOUIS— Common consumer complaints on sports equipment, auto insurance, education, the legal-financial problems of single people and retned housing will be examined in June on "Consumer Survival Kit," broadcasting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays on Channel 9.

Tonight's program — "Cash For Your Smash: A Look at Auto Insurance" — examines rising auto insurance costs. The program suggest tips on getting better coverage for lower costs, coping with the aftermath of an accident, and looks at the advantages of liability auto insurance.

On June 15, "The Bookies: The High Cost of Education" offers some help on ways to beat college costs and some alternatives to college itself. The program also takes a look at Parent Confidential Statements and gives information on career education.

On June 22, "Goint It Alone: A Look at the Single Life" focuses on the financial and legal circumstances of single people, with a special look at discrimination, housing and the problems of the single parent.

On June 29, "Tenants Anyone?" explains the rights and responsibilities of the two-out-of five Americans who live in rented housing.

Glacial Origin

Any large mass of snow and ice on the land which last many years is a glacier. Glaciers are formed over a number of years where more snow falls than melts. As this snow accumulates and becomes thicker, it is compressed and changed into dense, solid ice. Also, the mass of snow and ice tends to flow due to its own weight.

Dear Mr. Blanton,

In response to a letter published in your newspaper from Mr. F. L. Maxwell, Jr., we would like to express our opinions on this matter.

First of all the wrangling and bickering Mr. Maxwell wrote of was only parents trying to express our feelings about a very dedicated and talented teacher. You see, all of us have children in the band, and our children love and respect Mr. Bond. (When you have an upset child you have an upset parent.) We feel our children are our most precious possessions, and we would like to have the best teachers for them. Apparently Mr. Maxwell does not have a child involved.

We would also like to ask Mr. Maxwell where his facts came from? Not any of us saw him at our Parents Meeting in which 110 parents attended. At that informative meeting Mr. Bond was asked some of the questions Mr. Maxwell is asking. Such as, "How the School Board can control Mr. Bond now?" You see, Mr. Bond answered all of these questions and many more to the parents satisfaction, nd Mr. Maxwell could have received these answers also had he attended.

He also asked about the rest of the teachers and employees. We may not all be degreed parents, but we do know a good teacher from a bad one. We feel that most of our teachers are qualified, dedicated, and perfectly able to obey proper rules. Our concern is for the other teachers also. If a teacher can be dismissed for such petty reasons what about other good teachers? Do you not think they would feel insecure about their jobs?

We know Mr. Maxwell was quite concerned about the embarassment the administrators suffered, but no one saw this as a movement against them. We asked them to attend the parents meeting, and they sent word they had a Title IX meeting to attend. All parents were willing to listen to their reasons as they repeatedly stated to the different groups of parents that a final decision had not been made.

We resent very much Mr. Maxwell's classifying us as a vociferous group, no one was vociferous but we did feel our cause was just.

We also agree there should be a change in the R-1 School Board, but not in the five who seem to have a great sense of honesty and integrity and the ability to own and operate their own businesses. These qualified people were willing to make an unusual decision only after Mr. Bond appeared before the board, and they agreed he had been dismissed unjustly. We feel the change should be made in the one who is supposed to be there to represent us and see that justice is given to all.

We feel our administrators should be backed all the way in every case where they are right, but just like Mr. Maxwell, they too are human and subject to mistakes. The parents along with our board, whose job is to take action if our local administrators refuse, felt a mistake was made in the dismissal of Mr. Bond. (Otherwise why do we need a school board if all decisions are left to administrators.) We are glad our School Board cared enough to take the time to listen and gather facts for themselves, and most of all that a qualified, talented, and dedicated teacher will be teaching our children band next year.

Dr. Lamb

Fatique can be a problem

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What would you do if a child's mother had been given DES while carrying her baby?

My daughter was home on vacation and she has been depressed after learning, and hearing about effects on a girl born to a mother on this drug. My daughter's girl is now 13, and she is sure she was given DES when she was pregnant.

I talked to our family doctor about it after she left. His advice was to ignore it. He said, if she had been given the drug what could you do about it?

That is the reason I asked you the question. Would you please give me an answer?

DEAR READER — With all due respect to your doctor if he really told you to forget about it I can't agree with him. This is certainly a real danger and your daughter is right to be concerned.

What should she do? She should take her daughter to her gynecologist right now and have a check-up. Then her daughter should be followed carefully for any early sign of any malignancy. I hope she never develops one but the truth is that daughters of mothers who took diethylstilbesterol (DES) to maintain a pregnancy now face the possibility that the daughter might develop cancer of the vagina. It is a rare but very dangerous cancer. The best safeguard is the earliest possible detection, and if it should occur, immediate treatment. A delay could be fatal.

Incidentally there is now evidence that male babies may also have some abnormalities as a result of DES being given to the mother. Fortunately the changes that are suspect do not include cancer.

DEAR DR. LAMB — How long do you have to rest before you regain your strength after exercise? After I have done some exercise I seem to need to rest quite a long time before I can resume exercising. I'm trying to get in shape but want to do it the right way.

DEAR READER — Fatigue is difficult to measure and quantitate. Sometimes it is related to psychological factors and other times to metabolic factors.

Laboratory studies of measuring muscle strength have shown that if you fatigue a muscle it will take about 45 minutes for it to recover its strength completely.

What's the law?

The case of the unsociables

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

A group of middle-aged men decided to form a "for men only" social club -- and then decided it wouldn't be very social without women.

Consequently, they amended the by-laws of their organization, opening membership to both women and men. Shortly thereafter, however, they realized they had made a grievous mistake. Although the men outnumbered the loquacious ladies 60 to 20, the men found they couldn't get a word in edgewise: Generally speaking, the women were generally speaking.

To stop the situation from getting any worse, the men decided to stabilize the problem, and they voted, as a block, to stop further female membership.

"You old warhorses can't do that," protested the women. "It's discrimination. Since the by-laws provide for membership of both sexes, that's the way it has to stay."

"Not on your life!" responded the men as they mustered up their courage. "The by-laws also provide that they can be changed by a two-thirds vote. And, since we constitute the necessary two-thirds, the change is perfectly legal. That's not discrimination, that's survival."

Full of ire, the outraged women went to court, demanding that the action of the men be declared invalid.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the speechless men to change the by-laws so as to exclude further women?

This is how the judge ruled: YES!. The judge held that the vote of the men was not only in accordance with the organization's by-laws, but it was in keeping with natural justice as well.

(Based upon a 1937 Springfield, Missouri Court of Appeals Decision)

Foster Story opens Saturday

BARDSTOWN, Ky. – Paul Green's outdoor musical, "The Stephen Foster Story", opens its 18th season here Saturday.

Playing Stephen Foster for a fourth season is Reese Holcombe, a Bardstown native now living in New York City. Holcombe, who has extensive opera and musical theater experience, will be performing in a national touring company of "Most Happy Fellow" this fall and will tour Germany next year with Opera Artists International.

Performing opposite Holcome will be Daune Mahy, a faculty member at the University of Nebraska at Omaha. Miss Mahy has performed with the Omaha Opera and Symphony, the Kentucky Opera Association and the Louisville Bach Society. This is her fifth season in The Stephen Foster Story.

The show's director Horace L. Kelley has designed and supervised the construction of a number of new sets for the 1976 season, which runs through Sept. 5.

"The Stephen Foster Story" will play nightly, except Mondays, at 8:30 EDT, with a matinee indoors each Saturday at 3 p.m., beginning June 19.

Reservations are available by writing P. O. Box D, Bardstown, Ky. 40004 or by calling (502) 348-5971.

Hillbilly Days Festival is set

LEBANON— Ozark customs and arts and crafts will highlight the third annual Hillbilly Days Festival to be held June 18-20 at Bennett Spring State Park west of town, Missouri State Parks Director William K. Wight has announced.

Close to 40 artisans and craftsmen will demonstrate their individual talents, including how to spin, work with leather, make split-rail fences and weave baskets, while several competitive events, shows and other activities take place in the park.

The festival will begin at 1 p.m. June 18 and continue until 4 p.m. June 20.

Some of the events planned for the weekend include an antique car parade, featuring 60 to 70 automobiles; a pipe smoking contest; a square dance demonstration by 200 area dancers; a canoe race; a fiddler's contest; and a Sunday morning brush arbor.

Special children's events will be held Saturday afternoon. These include a greased-pole climb, apple bobbing, a sack race, a three-legged race, a greased pig contest and a nickel-in-the haystack hunt.

This annual event is sponsored by the Lebanon Chamber of Commerce and the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, Division of Parks and Recreation.

Bennett Spring State Park is one of Missouri's most popular parks and the first choice of many trout fishermen. The park has a modern swimming pool, a nature interpretive center, picnic areas, hiking trails and 60 rental cabins. The camping area has 235 campsites available on a "first-come, first-served" basis.

Dear Mr. Blanton,

In response to a letter published in your newspaper from Mr. F. L. Maxwell, Jr., we would like to express our opinions on this matter.

First of all the wrangling and bickering Mr. Maxwell wrote of was only parents trying to express our feelings about a very dedicated and talented teacher. You see, all of us have children in the band, and our children love and respect Mr. Bond. (When you have an upset child you have an upset parent.) We feel our children are our most precious possessions, and we would like to have the best teachers for them. Apparently Mr. Maxwell does not have a child involved.

We would also like to ask Mr. Maxwell where his facts came from? Not any of us saw him at our Parents Meeting in which 110 parents attended. At that informative meeting Mr. Bond was asked some of the questions Mr. Maxwell is asking. Such as, "How the School Board can control Mr. Bond now?" You see, Mr. Bond answered all of these questions and many more to the parents satisfaction, nd Mr. Maxwell could have received these answers also had he attended.

He also asked about the rest of the teachers and employees. We may not all be degreed parents, but we do know a good teacher from a bad one. We feel that most of our teachers are qualified, dedicated, and perfectly able to obey proper rules. Our concern is for the other teachers also. If a teacher can be dismissed for such petty reasons what about other good teachers? Do you not think they would feel insecure about their jobs?

We know Mr. Maxwell was quite concerned about the embarassment the administrators suffered, but no one saw this as a movement against them. We asked them to attend the parents meeting, and they sent word they had a Title IX meeting to attend. All parents were willing to listen to their reasons as they repeatedly stated to the different groups of parents that a final decision had not been made.

We resent very much Mr. Maxwell's classifying us as a vociferous group, no one was vociferous but we did feel our cause was just.

We also agree there should be a change in the R-1 School Board, but not in the five who seem to have a great sense of honesty and integrity and the ability to own and operate their own businesses. These qualified people were willing to make an unusual decision only after Mr. Bond appeared before the board, and they agreed he had been dismissed unjustly. We feel the change should be made in the one who is supposed to be there to represent us and see that justice is given to all.

We feel our administrators should be backed all the way in every case where they are right, but just like Mr. Maxwell, they too are human and subject to mistakes. The parents along with our board, whose job is to take action if our local administrators refuse, felt a mistake was made in the dismissal of Mr. Bond. (Otherwise why do we need a school board if all decisions are left to administrators.) We are glad our School Board cared enough to take the time to listen and gather facts for themselves, and most of all that a qualified, talented, and dedicated teacher will be teaching our children band next year.

Dr. Lamb

Fatique can be a problem

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What would you do if a child's mother had been given DES while carrying her baby?

My daughter was home on vacation and she has been depressed after learning, and hearing about effects on a girl born to a mother on this drug. My daughter's girl is now 13, and she is sure she was given DES when she was pregnant.

I talked to our family doctor about it after she left. His advice was to ignore it. He said, if she had been given the drug what could you do about it?

That is the reason I asked you the question. Would you please give me an answer?

DEAR READER — With all due respect to your doctor if he really told you to forget about it I can't agree with him. This is certainly a real danger and your daughter is right to be concerned.

What should she do? She should take her daughter to her gynecologist right now and have a check-up. Then her daughter should be followed carefully for any early sign of any malignancy. I hope she never develops one but the truth is that daughters of mothers who took diethylstilbesterol (DES) to maintain a pregnancy now face the possibility that the daughter might develop cancer of the vagina. It is a rare but very dangerous cancer. The best safeguard is the earliest possible detection, and if it should occur, immediate treatment. A delay could be fatal.

Incidentally there is now evidence that male babies may also have some abnormalities as a result of DES being given to the mother. Fortunately the changes that are suspect do not include cancer.

DEAR DR. LAMB — How long do you have to rest before you regain your strength after exercise? After I have done some exercise I seem to need to rest quite a long time before I can resume exercising. I'm trying to get in shape but want to do it the right way.

DEAR READER — Fatigue is difficult to measure and quantitate. Sometimes it is related to psychological factors and other times to metabolic factors.

Laboratory studies of measuring muscle strength have shown that if you fatigue a muscle it will take about 45 minutes for it to recover its strength completely.

What's the law?

The case of the unsociables

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

A group of middle-aged men decided to form a "for men only" social club -- and then decided it wouldn't be very social without women.

Consequently, they amended the by-laws of their organization, opening membership to both women and men. Shortly thereafter, however, they realized they had made a grievous mistake. Although the men outnumbered the loquacious ladies 60 to 20, the men found they couldn't get a word in edgewise: Generally speaking, the women were generally speaking.

To stop the situation from getting any worse, the men decided to stabilize the problem, and they voted, as a block, to stop further female membership.

"You old warhorses can't do that," protested the women. "It's discrimination. Since the by-laws provide for membership of both sexes, that's the way it has to stay."

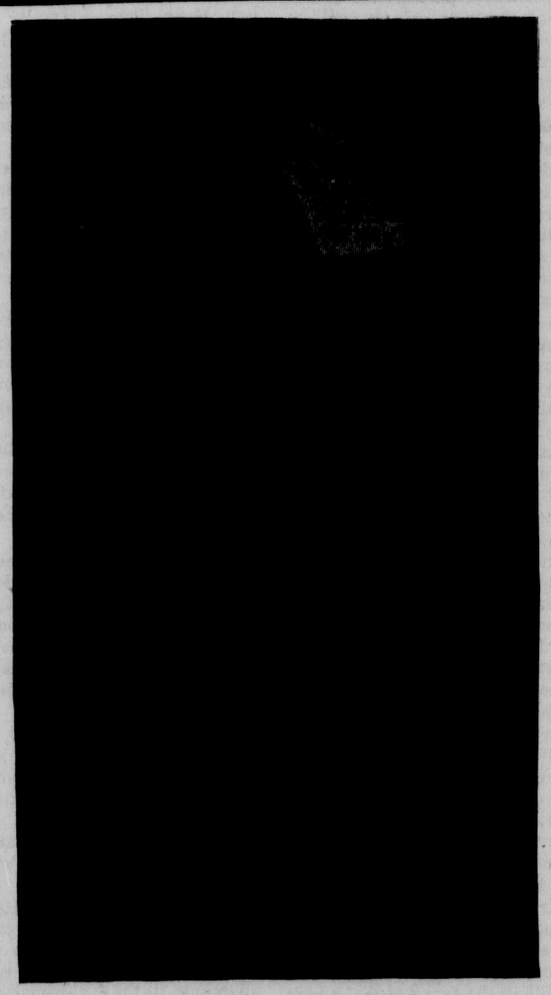
"Not on your life!" responded the men as they mustered up their courage. "The by-laws also provide that they can be changed by a two-thirds vote. And, since we constitute the necessary two-thirds, the change is perfectly legal. That's not discrimination, that's survival."

Full of ire, the outraged women went to court, demanding that the action of the men be declared invalid.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the speechless men to change the by-laws so as to exclude further women?

This is how the judge ruled: YES!. The judge held that the vote of the men was not only in accordance with the organization's by-laws, but it was in keeping with natural justice as well.

(Based upon a 1937 Springfield, Missouri Court of Appeals Decision)



Pierre Cardin decided it takes more than clothes to make the man.

OPEN SUNDAY

Foster Story opens Saturday

BARDSTOWN, Ky. – Paul Green's outdoor musical, "The Stephen Foster Story", opens its 18th season here Saturday.

Playing Stephen Foster for a fourth season is Reese Holcombe, a Bardstown native now living in New York City. Holcombe, who has extensive opera and musical theater experience, will be performing in a national touring company of "Most Happy Fellow" this fall and will tour Germany next year with Opera Artists International.

Performing opposite Holcome will be Daune Mahy, a faculty member at the University of Nebraska at Omaha. Miss Mahy has performed with the Omaha Opera and Symphony, the Kentucky Opera Association and the Louisville Bach Society. This is her fifth season in The Stephen Foster Story.

The show's director Horace L. Kelley has designed and supervised the construction of a number of new sets for the 1976 season, which runs through Sept. 5.

"The Stephen Foster Story" will play nightly, except Mondays, at 8:30 EDT, with a matinee indoors each Saturday at 3 p.m., beginning June 19.

Reservations are available by writing P. O. Box D, Bardstown, Ky. 40004 or by calling (502) 348-5971.

Hillbilly Days Festival is set

LEBANON— Ozark customs and arts and crafts will highlight the third annual Hillbilly Days Festival to be held June 18-20 at Bennett Spring State Park west of town, Missouri State Parks Director William K. Wight has announced.

Close to 40 artisans and craftsmen will demonstrate their individual talents, including how to spin, work with leather, make split-rail fences and weave baskets, while several competitive events, shows and other activities take place in the park.

The festival will begin at 1 p.m. June 18 and continue until 4 p.m. June 20.

Some of the events planned for the weekend include an antique car parade, featuring 60 to 70 automobiles; a pipe smoking contest; a square dance demonstration by 200 area dancers; a canoe race; a fiddler's contest; and a Sunday morning brush arbor.

Special children's events will be held Saturday afternoon. These include a greased-pole climb, apple bobbing, a sack race, a three-legged race, a greased pig contest and a nickel-in-the haystack hunt.

This annual event is sponsored by the Lebanon Chamber of Commerce and the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, Division of Parks and Recreation.

Bennett Spring State Park is one of Missouri's most popular parks and the first choice of many trout fishermen. The park has a modern swimming pool, a nature interpretive center, picnic areas, hiking trails and 60 rental cabins. The camping area has 235 campsites available on a "first-come, first-served" basis.

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, June 8, the 160th day of 1976. There are 206 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 632, the prophet, Mohammed, died.

On this date:

In 1861, Tennessee seceded from the Union.

In 1905, President Theodore Roosevelt offered to act as a mediator in the Russo-Japanese War.

In 1942, during World War Two, Japanese submarines shelled Sydney, Australia.

In 1953, the U-S Supreme Court ruled that restaurants in the District of Columbia could not refuse to serve Blacks.

In 1967, 34 U-S seamen were killed when Israeli boats and planes attacked an American communications ship off the Sinai Peninsula. Israel said the attack was accidental.

In 1968, James Earl Ray, who was under indictment for the assassination of Martin Luther King, was arrested in London, England.

Ten years ago: Hurriane Alma struck the Florida west coast after battering Cuba with 117-mile-an-hour winds.

Five years ago: President Salvador Allende declared a state of emergency in Chile after an anti-leftist politician had been killed by terrorists.

One year ago: North Vietnam's National Assembly urged that Hanoi be made the capital of all of Vietnam now that South Vietnam had been defeated.

Today's birthdays: Former Democratic Senator Ralph Yarborough of Texas is 73 years old. Management consultant John Diebold is 50.

Thought for today: "Impossible" is a word only to be found in the dictionary of fools--Napoleon Bonaparte, 1769-1821.

Bicentennial footnote: The Continental Congresss in Philadelphia debated resolutions by Richard Henry Less of Virginia calling for independence from Britain but postponed a vote because of the controversial nature of the nature of the matter.

Businessman Snubs Smokers As Customers and Employes

By JAMES CARRIER
Associated Press Writer

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Oscar Austad will even give a smoker a good deal on a set of golf clubs. But light up and the deal's off.

With the chutzpah that comes with running his own business, Austad will turn away a customer who wants to smoke while shopping for a $400 set of clubs.

This militancy about smoking has been part of the Austad Co. policy ever since the former insurance adjuster and nongolfer began stocking a few clubs in his garage 13 years ago.

"I don't know if we've ever lost any business because of it. I don't care if we do," said a relaxed 54-year-old Austad from behind a cluttered desk.

His casual style (he favors recreation shoes and golf shirts) gives no hint of the phenomenal success he has become. Four conglomerates listed on the New York Stock Exchange have made "multimillion-dollar" offers for the company, which registered $9 million in sales in 1975 and looks for $12 million this year.

Last year business was up 58 per cent while the rest of the industry felt a slump.

The air in his warehouse, the biggest golf distributing warehouse in the country, is hospital fresh. Not one cigarette has been lit inside.

A yield-shaped sign on the glass door reads, "Lungs at work — no smoking" and in the foyer is the last ashtray a visitor will see until he comes out again.

When Austad hired each of his 75 employes, he asked whether they smoked, and if they could abstain four hours. He does not permit smoking even on coffee breaks or anywhere on the 10-acre grounds, so a smoker has to sneak off at lunch time.

He has a standing $100 bonus offer to any employe who will quit smoking for a year. So far, one man has taken him up on it.

"Even as a kid I used to resent sitting in a room where people were blowing smoke in my face." His father smoked a cigar, which he hated. And when he was 9 his mother pulled him aside and made him promise not to smoke or drink. He did, and it was enough to get him through the temptations of the teen years.

In two terms as Republican state senator, Austad pushed through a law banning smoking in 10 public places such as concert halls and buses.

He predicts that the rights of nonsmokers will prevail and that eventually "smoking will be indulged in by consenting adults in private."

Even at the legislature, Austad pushed golf clubs. He passed out his catalog to fellow legislators, one of whom was caught by a news photographer gazing at the pictures during a boring debate.

Austad's business is almost as simple as his no-smoking dictum. No advertising, no salesmen. He mails 500,000 catalogs, designed by himself, to people who ask for them. All orders are shipped out the same day they arrive.

By his own admission, Austad is a "lousy" golfer, shooting 60 for nine holes. He thinks golf takes too long and prefers tennis.

Sitting unused beside his desk is a huge golf bag emblazoned with his name, a gift from Ram golf equipment. But he doesn't dare use it. "People would think I was a professional carrying that around."

It was through Ram (originally Croydon), purchased 1½ years ago by Colgate-Palmolive, that Austad got his start. A brother-in-law who ran the business asked Austad to see if he could sell a few clubs.

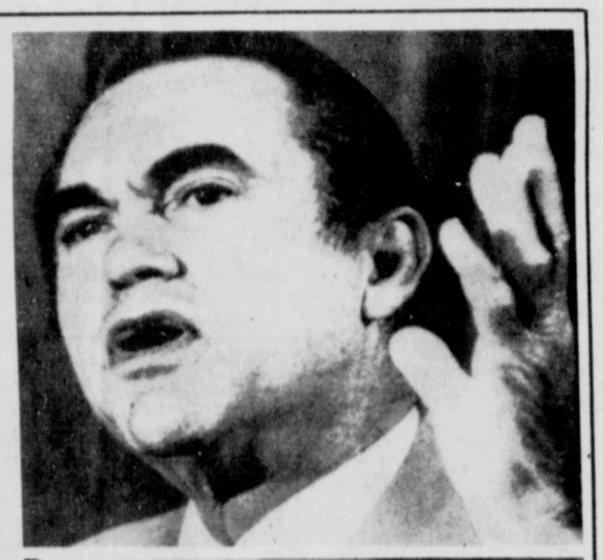
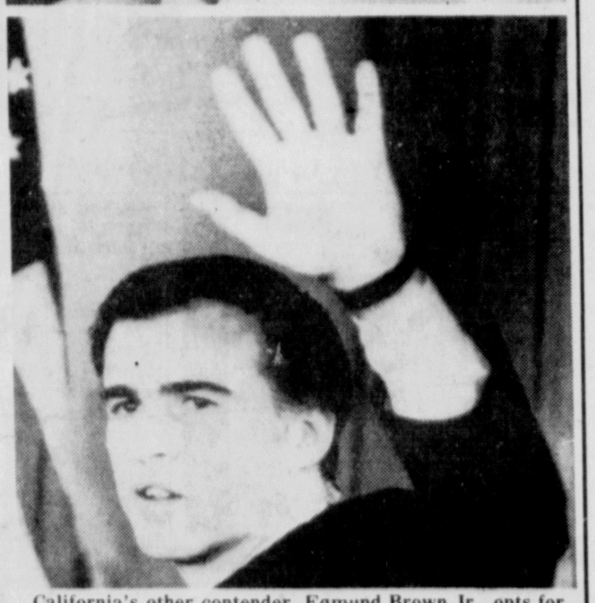
Handy campaigners

As every public speaker knows, a gesture can enhance the worth of a thousand words. This year's presidential possibilities seem to be particularly handy speakers. George Wallace, upper right, takes the whole-hand approach while Ronald Reagan, above, favors one emphatic finger as do, below, Hubert Humphrey and — ever upward as befits the progressive standard bearer — Morris Udall.





California's other contender, Edmund Brown Jr., opts for the high sign, or maybe he's doing a late-entry testing of the political winds with all fingers. And last, but not necessarily the prerogative of frontrunners, is the two-handed style of Jimmy Carter, below.

Philatelic fireworks are scheduled for July 4 as we celebrate the nation's 200th birthday.

A strip of four 13-cent stamps forming a design entity which reproduces John Trumbull's famous painting, "The Declaration of Independence," will be issued July 4 in Philadelphia. The painting contains portraits of 48 of the 56 persons associated with the signing of the Declaration. These four adhesives are the last U.S. Bicentennial stamps scheduled for issuance in 1976.

The central portion of the Trumbull painting is also the subject of one of the four Bicentennial Souvenir Sheets to be issued in Philadelphia May 29, the opening day of INTERPHIL 76.

The U.S. Postal Service claims the new strip of four will be especially appealing to the general public as well as to collectors because it provides an "inexpensive memento of this country's Bicentennial." For 52 cents, one can receive the four stamps and the "July 4, 1976, Philadelphia, Pa." first day of issue cancellation.

Perforations divide the strip into four individual stamps. In the upper left corner of each stamp, in two lines of type, appears "USA 13c." Across the bottom of each stamp is the inscription "July 4, 1776."

Collectors interested in first day cancellations should address their orders to "Declaration of Independence Stamps, Postmaster, Philadelphia, Pa., 19104." Orders must include self-addressed envelopes to which the stamps will be affixed. The cost is 13 cents per stamp (52 cents for the four) and your remittance should be by money order, not cash. The return address should be written low and to the left. Orders must be postmarked by July 4. Because of the heavy demand, delays of at least 60 days are anticipated in filling orders.

In the Bicentennial mood, the British are invading Philadelphia again. This time it's INTERPHIL 76, about which we have commented many times previously. Queen Elizabeth II has authorized the display of her Royal Stamp Collections in the competitive class. British entries at the exhibition are second only to the U.S. private collections from 45 different countries which will be seen at INTERPHIL May 29-June 6.

To honor the U.S. Bicentennial, the British Post Office will issue a commemorative stamp portraying Benjamin Franklin. The new stamp will have its first day of issue simultaneously June 2 in Great Britain and at INTERPHIL 76.

The U.S. Postal Service will complete its 1976 commemorative stamp program with two new issues scheduled for July and September release.

A block of four 13-centers will salute the 1976 Olympic Games, with each stamp featuring a different Olympic event — diving, skating, cross-country skiing and track. The set will be issued in July.

The last commemorative will honor Adolph S. Ochs, late publisher of the New York Times. This 13-cent stamp will be issued Sept. 18.

Although these two stamps are the last of the 1976 commemoratives, there will be two Christmas stamps coming up later this year — but they are not considered as commemoratives.

Businessman Snubs Smokers As Customers and Employes

By JAMES CARRIER
Associated Press Writer

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Oscar Austad will even give a smoker a good deal on a set of golf clubs. But light up and the deal's off.

With the chutzpah that comes with running his own business, Austad will turn away a customer who wants to smoke while shopping for a $400 set of clubs.

This militancy about smoking has been part of the Austad Co. policy ever since the former insurance adjuster and nongolfer began stocking a few clubs in his garage 13 years ago.

"I don't know if we've ever lost any business because of it. I don't care if we do," said a relaxed 54-year-old Austad from behind a cluttered desk.

His casual style (he favors recreation shoes and golf shirts) gives no hint of the phenomenal success he has become. Four conglomerates listed on the New York Stock Exchange have made "multimillion-dollar" offers for the company, which registered $9 million in sales in 1975 and looks for $12 million this year.

Last year business was up 58 per cent while the rest of the industry felt a slump.

The air in his warehouse, the biggest golf distributing warehouse in the country, is hospital fresh. Not one cigarette has been lit inside.

A yield-shaped sign on the glass door reads, "Lungs at work — no smoking" and in the foyer is the last ashtray a visitor will see until he comes out again.

When Austad hired each of his 75 employes, he asked whether they smoked, and if they could abstain four hours. He does not permit smoking even on coffee breaks or anywhere on the 10-acre grounds, so a smoker has to sneak off at lunch time.

He has a standing $100 bonus offer to any employe who will quit smoking for a year. So far, one man has taken him up on it.

"Even as a kid I used to resent sitting in a room where people were blowing smoke in my face." His father smoked a cigar, which he hated. And when he was 9 his mother pulled him aside and made him promise not to smoke or drink. He did, and it was enough to get him through the temptations of the teen years.

In two terms as Republican state senator, Austad pushed through a law banning smoking in 10 public places such as concert halls and buses.

He predicts that the rights of nonsmokers will prevail and that eventually "smoking will be indulged in by consenting adults in private."

Even at the legislature, Austad pushed golf clubs. He passed out his catalog to fellow legislators, one of whom was caught by a news photographer gazing at the pictures during a boring debate.

Austad's business is almost as simple as his no-smoking dictum. No advertising, no salesmen. He mails 500,000 catalogs, designed by himself, to people who ask for them. All orders are shipped out the same day they arrive.

By his own admission, Austad is a "lousy" golfer, shooting 60 for nine holes. He thinks golf takes too long and prefers tennis.

Sitting unused beside his desk is a huge golf bag emblazoned with his name, a gift from Ram golf equipment. But he doesn't dare use it. "People would think I was a professional carrying that around."

It was through Ram (originally Croydon), purchased 1½ years ago by Colgate-Palmolive, that Austad got his start. A brother-in-law who ran the business asked Austad to see if he could sell a few clubs.

Handy campaigners

As every public speaker knows, a gesture can enhance the worth of a thousand words. This year's presidential possibilities seem to be particularly handy speakers. George Wallace, upper right, takes the whole-hand approach while Ronald Reagan, above, favors one emphatic finger as do, below, Hubert Humphrey and — ever upward as befits the progressive standard bearer — Morris Udall.

California's other contender, Edmund Brown Jr., opts for the high sign, or maybe he's doing a late-entry testing of the political winds with all fingers. And last, but not necessarily the prerogative of frontrunners, is the two-handed style of Jimmy Carter, below.

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures
By SYD KRONISH

Philatelic fireworks are scheduled for July 4 as we celebrate the nation's 200th birthday.

A strip of four 13-cent stamps forming a design entity which reproduces John Trumbull's famous painting, "The Declaration of Independence," will be issued July 4 in Philadelphia. The painting contains portraits of 48 of the 56 persons associated with the signing of the Declaration. These four adhesives are the last U.S. Bicentennial stamps scheduled for issuance in 1976.

The central portion of the Trumbull painting is also the subject of one of the four Bicentennial Souvenir Sheets to be issued in Philadelphia May 29, the opening day of INTERPHIL 76.

The U.S. Postal Service claims the new strip of four will be especially appealing to the general public as well as to collectors because it provides an "inexpensive memento of this country's Bicentennial." For 52 cents, one can receive the four stamps and the "July 4, 1976, Philadelphia, Pa." first day of issue cancellation.

Perforations divide the strip into four individual stamps. In the upper left corner of each stamp, in two lines of type, appears "USA 13c." Across the bottom of each stamp is the inscription "July 4, 1776."

Collectors interested in first day cancellations should address their orders to "Declaration of Independence Stamps, Postmaster, Philadelphia, Pa., 19104." Orders must include self-addressed envelopes to which the stamps will be affixed. The cost is 13 cents per stamp (52 cents for the four) and your remittance should be by money order, not cash. The return address should be written low and to the left. Orders must be postmarked by July 4. Because of the heavy demand, delays of at least 60 days are anticipated in filling orders.

In the Bicentennial mood, the British are invading Philadelphia again. This time it's INTERPHIL 76, about which we have commented many times previously. Queen Elizabeth II has authorized the display of her Royal Stamp Collections in the competitive class. British entries at the exhibition are second only to the U.S. private collections from 45 different countries which will be seen at INTERPHIL May 29-June 6.

To honor the U.S. Bicentennial, the British Post Office will issue a commemorative stamp portraying Benjamin Franklin. The new stamp will have its first day of issue simultaneously June 2 in Great Britain and at INTERPHIL 76.

The U.S. Postal Service will complete its 1976 commemorative stamp program with two new issues scheduled for July and September release.

A block of four 13-centers will salute the 1976 Olympic Games, with each stamp featuring a different Olympic event — diving, skating, cross-country skiing and track. The set will be issued in July.

The last commemorative will honor Adolph S. Ochs, late publisher of the New York Times. This 13-cent stamp will be issued Sept. 18.

Although these two stamps are the last of the 1976 commemoratives, there will be two Christmas stamps coming up later this year — but they are not considered as commemoratives.

Girl Scouts to relive past

Amy Bass, left, Megan Noe, center, and Cari Carr of Sikeston will be among 150 Girl Scouts attending "1776 All Over Again" at Camp Louise near Schickshinny, Pa., from June 19 through July 9, when girls from across the nation will relive colonial life through colonial activities and enjoy six days of home hospitality. "1776 All Over Again" is a Girl Scout council-sponsored wider opportunity event open to girls 14 through 18 with an interest in colonial life and able to live in a camp setting.

Missouri near bottom of the class in school fundings

JEFFERSON CITY — State appropriations approved for education in 1975-76 will leave Missouri public schools near the bottom of the class in terms of use of state wealth to fund education, according to Ron Bruch, president of the Missouri National Education Association.

Citing statistics from "Rankings of the States, 1976" released by the National Education Association through its Missouri affiliate, Bruch pointed out that personal income in the state is commensurate with the size of the public school system which state and local governments must support. Personal income and public school enrollments in Missouri both rank 15th in the nation.

"What is unfortunate for the youth of Missouri", said Bruch, "is the harsh fact that Missouri ranked 45th in the per capita state expenditures for all education in 1974. In 1974 the estimated current expenditure for public elementary and secondary schools per pupil in average daily attendance ranked 30th. In 1975 the ranking dropped to 31st," he added.

"The five percent increase in state foundation monies for the next school year will not be enough to keep Missouri from falling even farther behind the national average," Bruch noted.

Over the past two years, the estimated percent of the state's contribution to the total cost of the running public schools has declined in the national rankings from 39th to 40th. The portion of school funding from local government revenue has increased from 56.9 percent in 1974-75 to an estimated 58 percent in 1975-76. This shift in the funding burden moved the local government's ranking from 14th in 1974-75 to 11th in 1975-76.

"In view of the limited taxing authority of local school boards, this trend is alarming," said Bruch. It is time for a realization at the highest levels of this state that more state dollars should be going to support Missouri's school system."

"Although every individual taxpayer probably feels his taxes are too high," Bruch commented, "Missourians are being taxed less at the local and state level than the average U.S. citizen."

The per-capita property tax revenue of local governments in 1973-74 was $48 less than the U.S. average of $220 for a ranking of 29th. The per-capita state tax revenue for 1974 was $80.02 less than the U.S. average of $352.25, for a ranking of 45th. As a percent of personal income in 1974, general revenue of state and local governments ranked 46th.

"The discrepancy between the ability to pay and the effort being made to support education and other governmental services can be seen clearly," said Bruch. "If tax collections in Missouri in 1974 had only equaled U.S. averages, hundreds of millions of dollars in additional revenue would have been available in the state. Those missing dollars mean missed educational opportunities for the youth of Missouri.

"Teachers in Missouri also find that their salaries are falling behind national averages," Bruch added. "The average Missouri teacher will earn $2,034 less than the average teacher in the U.S. during the 1975-76 school year." The estimated average salaries of instructional staff in Missouri public schools rank 34th.

Symington to campaign in SeMo

Second District Rep. Jim Symington, D—St. Louis, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, has indicated he will concentrate on "people to people" campaigning in a two-day swing through southeast Missouri Wednesday and Thursday.

Symington said he will visit plant gates, walk through business districts and shopping centers and campaign in county courthouses in an effort to meet as many people as possible.

The schedule of the towns he will visit includes:

Wednesday—Benton, visit courthouse and business district, 10 a.m.; Sikeston, arrive at 11 a.m. lunch with supporters at noon and campaign in Kingsway Plaza shopping center at 1:15 p.m.; New Madrid, visit courthouse and business district, 3 p.m.; and Kennett, arrive at 5 p.m. for visits in town and attend 7 p.m. open house at home of Dr. Byron Masterson, 421 S. Baker.

Thursday—Hayti, visit plant gate at 7 a.m. and breakfast at 8 a.m. in Gwin's Restaurant; Caruthersville, visit courthouse and business district, 10 a.m.; Parma, visit business district, 11:45 a.m.; Bloomfield, visit courthouse and business district, 1 p.m. Dexter, visit business district, 2:15 p.m.

Search is on for a new commissioner

ROLLA, Mo. (AP) — A talent search for a commissioner is under way by the Missouri Coordinating Board for Higher Education, seeking to replace Jack Cross who resigned.

Sought are candidates who have a doctoral degree, experience in dealing with a board of laymen, and leadership ability. The successful candidate must then meet the approval of Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

Search committee chairman William McCalpin said Monday he is confident a new commissioner can be found within six months.

In other action, the board signed a contract with Jefferson Community College in Hillsboro to act as a political agent for a master planning program.

The program is made up of six citizen committees with six to 30 members each which discuss aspects of education in Missouri. Another 200 citizens serve in an advisory role to the committees.

The board also approved new certificate degree programs for East Central Junior College, Florissant Valley Community College, Mineral Area Junior College, University of Missouri-St. Louis, University of Missouri-Rolla and Southwest Missouri State University.

stipulated curbing.

Property being developed by TVS Industries on North Ingram Street was subdivided into six parcels at the request of the firm. Six four-unit apartments are being built on the property.

The council authorized the purchase of a second vehicle for the detectives. Church said the city would seek to obtain titles and sell two abandoned cars the meter man and juvenile officer have been using. The money would be applied toward the purchase price of a second detective car. The present car used by the detectives will be retained.

The council appointed Keith Ziegenhorn to a three-year term on the Sikeston Airport Advisory Board, replacing Clyde Wilson. Other persons considered besides Ziegenhorn and Wilson were Ray Clinton and E. E. "Chuck" Grant.

The council decided to hold a special meeting later this month to consider liquor license applications and set an election date for a $5 million industrial bond issue sought by DeKalb Ag-Research Inc. for its plant south of Sikeston.

A liquor license application for Piggly Wiggly, a new supermarket on East Malone Avenue, was denied because the building is within 300 feet of a church.

Two injured in separate accidents

Two southeast Missouri men received injuries in separate one-car accidents on area roads Monday, the highway patrol announced today.

J. V. Cornelison, 51, of Steele suffered moderate injuries on Highway 160 two miles west of Fairdealing.

According to the patrol, Cornelison's eastbound car ran off the right side of a bridge at an unknown time Monday and overturned.

Cornelison was taken to Veterans Hospital at Poplar Bluff.

Everett Glessner Johnson Jr., 25, of Jackson Route Four received minor injuries at 12:45 p.m. one mile east of Fruitland on Highway 177.

The accident occurred as Johnson's westbound car came over a hill. He observed another car pull from a side road and applied the brakes, causing his vehicle to skid off the road down a deep embankment and overturn.

Johnson was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

CHICAGO (AP) — Fifty years ago a famous ad showed a gentleman seated at a piano surrounded by doubters. The ad read: "They laughed when I sat down at the piano, but when I began to play . . ." The ad was for the U.S. School of Music, a division of LaSalle Extension University. Since then over a quarter of a million correspondence students have taken the course.

Today the ad might read, "They laughed when I picked up a guitar . . ." because the guitar course is what most students now want. "I guess we're still reflecting society," said school director John Murphy. "Fifty years ago the piano was the instrument of the times. Now it's the guitar."

The X-24A was a "lifting body" aircraft designed for orbital and suborbital missions. Its aerodynamic lift was obtained from its shape instead of conventional aircraft wings.

Built like a trinagle wedge, the aircraft has a flat bottom, rounded top, and three vertical fins. It was developed through a joint Air Force and National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) project.

The objective was to gather information about subsonic and supersonic flight problems, maneuverability, and landing qualities of lifting bodies. The research data obtained will help aerospace engineers design future aircraft that will operate in the earth's atmosphere as well as outerspace.

The technology gained will also aid in developing re-entry vehicles capable of returning from space and landing at pre-determined landing fields.

The X-24A completed 28 successful flights between 1969 and 1971. The top speed reached was 1,048 miles per hour and the highest altitude flown was 71,407 feet.

The X-24A was launched from a modified B-52 "Stratofortress" bomber. The bomber launched X-24A from an altitude of 45,000 feet flying 450 to 500 m.p.h. After separation the X-24A's rocket engine is ignited for 137 seconds, climbing to altitude, and then gliding back to a landing area at Edwards AFB, Calif.

The X-24A is over 24-feet long, 10-feet high and 13-feet wide. It's powered by a liquid propellant rocket engine with a thrust of 8,000 lbs.

The exhibit is sponsored by The Mall Association in co-operation with the United States Air Force. Air Force personnel will be present to assist visitors and answer questions about the exhibit.

CHICAGO (AP) — Fifty years ago a famous ad showed a gentleman seated at a piano surrounded by doubters. The ad read: "They laughed when I sat down at the piano, but when I began to play . . ." The ad was for the U.S. School of Music, a division of LaSalle Extension University. Since then over a quarter of a million correspondence students have taken the course.

Today the ad might read, "They laughed when I picked up a guitar . . ." because the guitar course is what most students now want. "I guess we're still reflecting society," said school director John Murphy. "Fifty years ago the piano was the instrument of the times. Now it's the guitar."

Girl Scouts to relive past

Amy Bass, left, Megan Noe, center, and Cari Carr of Sikeston will be among 150 Girl Scouts attending "1776 All Over Again" at Camp Louise near Schickshinny, Pa., from June 19 through July 9, when girls from across the nation will relive colonial life through colonial activities and enjoy six days of home hospitality. "1776 All Over Again" is a Girl Scout council-sponsored wider opportunity event open to girls 14 through 18 with an interest in colonial life and able to live in a camp setting.

Missouri near bottom of the class in school fundings

JEFFERSON CITY — State appropriations approved for education in 1975-76 will leave Missouri public schools near the bottom of the class in terms of use of state wealth to fund education, according to Ron Bruch, president of the Missouri National Education Association.

Citing statistics from "Rankings of the States, 1976" released by the National Education Association through its Missouri affiliate, Bruch pointed out that personal income in the state is commensurate with the size of the public school system which state and local governments must support. Personal income and public school enrollments in Missouri both rank 15th in the nation.

"What is unfortunate for the youth of Missouri", said Bruch, "is the harsh fact that Missouri ranked 45th in the per capita state expenditures for all education in 1974. In 1974 the estimated current expenditure for public elementary and secondary schools per pupil in average daily attendance ranked 30th. In 1975 the ranking dropped to 31st," he added.

"The five percent increase in state foundation monies for the next school year will not be enough to keep Missouri from falling even farther behind the national average," Bruch noted.

Over the past two years, the estimated percent of the state's contribution to the total cost of the running public schools has declined in the national rankings from 39th to 40th. The portion of school funding from local government revenue has increased from 56.9 percent in 1974-75 to an estimated 58 percent in 1975-76. This shift in the funding burden moved the local government's ranking from 14th in 1974-75 to 11th in 1975-76.

"In view of the limited taxing authority of local school boards, this trend is alarming," said Bruch. It is time for a realization at the highest levels of this state that more state dollars should be going to support Missouri's school system."

"Although every individual taxpayer probably feels his taxes are too high," Bruch commented, "Missourians are being taxed less at the local and state level than the average U.S. citizen."

The per-capita property tax revenue of local governments in 1973-74 was $48 less than the U.S. average of $220 for a ranking of 29th. The per-capita state tax revenue for 1974 was $80.02 less than the U.S. average of $352.25, for a ranking of 45th. As a percent of personal income in 1974, general revenue of state and local governments ranked 46th.

"The discrepancy between the ability to pay and the effort being made to support education and other governmental services can be seen clearly," said Bruch. "If tax collections in Missouri in 1974 had only equaled U.S. averages, hundreds of millions of dollars in additional revenue would have been available in the state. Those missing dollars mean missed educational opportunities for the youth of Missouri.

"Teachers in Missouri also find that their salaries are falling behind national averages," Bruch added. "The average Missouri teacher will earn $2,034 less than the average teacher in the U.S. during the 1975-76 school year." The estimated average salaries of instructional staff in Missouri public schools rank 34th.

Symington to campaign in SeMo

Second District Rep. Jim Symington, D—St. Louis, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, has indicated he will concentrate on "people to people" campaigning in a two-day swing through southeast Missouri Wednesday and Thursday.

Symington said he will visit plant gates, walk through business districts and shopping centers and campaign in county courthouses in an effort to meet as many people as possible.

The schedule of the towns he will visit includes:

Wednesday—Benton, visit courthouse and business district, 10 a.m.; Sikeston, arrive at 11 a.m. lunch with supporters at noon and campaign in Kingsway Plaza shopping center at 1:15 p.m.; New Madrid, visit courthouse and business district, 3 p.m.; and Kennett, arrive at 5 p.m. for visits in town and attend 7 p.m. open house at home of Dr. Byron Masterson, 421 S. Baker.

Thursday—Hayti, visit plant gate at 7 a.m. and breakfast at 8 a.m. in Gwin's Restaurant; Caruthersville, visit courthouse and business district, 10 a.m.; Parma, visit business district, 11:45 a.m.; Bloomfield, visit courthouse and business district, 1 p.m. Dexter, visit business district, 2:15 p.m.

Search is on for a new commissioner

ROLLA, Mo. (AP) — A talent search for a commissioner is under way by the Missouri Coordinating Board for Higher Education, seeking to replace Jack Cross who resigned.

Sought are candidates who have a doctoral degree, experience in dealing with a board of laymen, and leadership ability. The successful candidate must then meet the approval of Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

Search committee chairman William McCalpin said Monday he is confident a new commissioner can be found within six months.

In other action, the board signed a contract with Jefferson Community College in Hillsboro to act as a political agent for a master planning program.

The program is made up of six citizen committees with six to 30 members each which discuss aspects of education in Missouri. Another 200 citizens serve in an advisory role to the committees.

The board also approved new certificate degree programs for East Central Junior College, Florissant Valley Community College, Mineral Area Junior College, University of Missouri-St. Louis, University of Missouri-Rolla and Southwest Missouri State University.

stipulated curbing.

Property being developed by TVS Industries on North Ingram Street was subdivided into six parcels at the request of the firm. Six four-unit apartments are being built on the property.

The council authorized the purchase of a second vehicle for the detectives. Church said the city would seek to obtain titles and sell two abandoned cars the meter man and juvenile officer have been using. The money would be applied toward the purchase price of a second detective car. The present car used by the detectives will be retained.

The council appointed Keith Ziegenhorn to a three-year term on the Sikeston Airport Advisory Board, replacing Clyde Wilson. Other persons considered besides Ziegenhorn and Wilson were Ray Clinton and E. E. "Chuck" Grant.

The council decided to hold a special meeting later this month to consider liquor license applications and set an election date for a $5 million industrial bond issue sought by DeKalb Ag-Research Inc. for its plant south of Sikeston.

A liquor license application for Piggly Wiggly, a new supermarket on East Malone Avenue, was denied because the building is within 300 feet of a church.

Two injured in separate accidents

Two southeast Missouri men received injuries in separate one-car accidents on area roads Monday, the highway patrol announced today.

J. V. Cornelison, 51, of Steele suffered moderate injuries on Highway 160 two miles west of Fairdealing.

According to the patrol, Cornelison's eastbound car ran off the right side of a bridge at an unknown time Monday and overturned.

Cornelison was taken to Veterans Hospital at Poplar Bluff.

Everett Glessner Johnson Jr., 25, of Jackson Route Four received minor injuries at 12:45 p.m. one mile east of Fruitland on Highway 177.

The accident occurred as Johnson's westbound car came over a hill. He observed another car pull from a side road and applied the brakes, causing his vehicle to skid off the road down a deep embankment and overturn.

to open a satellite station in Dexter.

The office will be set up in a mobile home on a city parking lot.

Conner said the move will be a big help to Dexter's industry and was really needed.

The council agreed to furnish the state agency a site if it reaches a final decision to open an office in Dexter.

Texas is the leading petroleum-producing state, followed by Louisiana.

Well baby clinic is scheduled for Thursday

MOREHOUSE— A well baby clinic will be conducted from 9 a.m. to noon Thursday by the New Madrid County Health Department in the Kiwanis Club building on Beech Street.

For information, parents of eligible children are requested to contact Mrs. Helen Owings by phone at numbers 667-5041 or 667-5023.

Graduates from MMA

MEXICO, Mo. — Cadet Tom Merick, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Merick, Catron Route One, was among graduates receiving diplomas May 23 during the 87th annual commencement exercises at Missouri Military Academy.

The principal speaker at the graduation ceremonies was Missouri Attorney General John C. Danforth, who presented diplomas to 51 seniors and 23 eighth graders.

The X-24A was a "lifting body" aircraft designed for orbital and suborbital missions. Its aerodynamic lift was obtained from its shape instead of conventional aircraft wings.

Built like a trinagle wedge, the aircraft has a flat bottom, rounded top, and three vertical fins. It was developed through a joint Air Force and National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) project.

The objective was to gather information about subsonic and supersonic flight problems, maneuverability, and landing qualities of lifting bodies. The research data obtained will help aerospace engineers design future aircraft that will operate in the earth's atmosphere as well as outerspace.

The technology gained will also aid in developing re-entry vehicles capable of returning from space and landing at pre-determined landing fields.

The X-24A completed 28 successful flights between 1969 and 1971. The top speed reached was 1,048 miles per hour and the highest altitude flown was 71,407 feet.

The X-24A was launched from a modified B-52 "Stratofortress" bomber. The bomber launched X-24A from an altitude of 45,000 feet flying 450 to 500 m.p.h. After separation the X-24A's rocket engine is ignited for 137 seconds, climbing to altitude, and then gliding back to a landing area at Edwards AFB, Calif.

The X-24A is over 24-feet long, 10-feet high and 13-feet wide. It's powered by a liquid propellant rocket engine with a thrust of 8,000 lbs.

The exhibit is sponsored by The Mall Association in co-operation with the United States Air Force. Air Force personnel will be present to assist visitors and answer questions about the exhibit.
